What Lay Beyond?

HANNAN MARTENET

—BY HERMAN LANDON—

T[illegible] executed [illegible] amazed [illegible] he had grown old [illegible] the service of [illegible] and withdrew [illegible] Mallingham was alone in [illegible] had been Winthrop Martenet's library [illegible] littered with [illegible] from many lands and [illegible] other useful [illegible] holding a certain [illegible] every nook of the room [illegible] Only Winthrop [illegible] erratic [illegible] would have [illegible] ls and end [illegible] Mallingham [illegible] room He had adopted this [illegible] as a matter of [illegible] for him [illegible] secretly a little alarmed at the morbid [illegible] nation the library held even for him Old Winthrop had been dead these seven years yet the room had never lost the mystical flavor of his personality It hovered over the huge redwood writing desk [illegible] was maintained in drab tapestries and unsightly bits of statuary [illegible] lingered in the fancy [illegible] that were never wholly dispelled by the light of day

It was a strange vital and dominant personality and Mallingham [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible]—

The Globe with Its Infernal and Everlasting Motion

[illegible] in his writings [illegible] and with [illegible] contemplated [illegible] handiwork [illegible] globe suspended [illegible] of steel and [illegible] revolution [illegible] its axis Very slowly [illegible] barely perceptible [illegible] ball was [illegible] the [illegible] which might have [illegible] from some [illegible] Just now [illegible] the outer edges of [illegible] ornament [illegible] by the pearls of the [illegible] would be dimpled [illegible] dawn

[illegible] sense of [illegible] was baffled The fact [illegible] was only a trifling [illegible] Winthrop Gaster [illegible] while [illegible] more serious labors [illegible] his bafflement For [illegible] could see [illegible] might [illegible] the same cosmic [illegible] the earth itself [illegible] eternal [illegible] But that was preposterous It did [illegible] the materials [illegible] ham His feelings were [illegible] a small boy toward his watch he wanted to [illegible] the things [illegible] what made it move

It was strange that though Old Winthrop had been dead for seven years nobody had ever suggested doing such a thing People seemed reluctant to pry very far into the heritage of secrets which the erratic old scientist had left behind him It was almost as if they feared to profane Old Winthrop's memory Consequently nobody had ventured to expose the mechanism that made the globe revolve It was Mallingham's firm conviction that a mechanism of some sort there must be At one time he thought that the supporting column firmly rooted to the floor might contain hidden wires which connected the sphere with the electric current in the house But this theory had been shattered one night when there had been a mishap at the power plant which plunged this section of the city into darkness Mallingham had chanced to be a visitor at the Martenet house that night and he had received something of a shock upon discovering [illegible] the ball [illegible] still pursuing [illegible] infinite [illegible] whirling [illegible]

Winthrop Seemed To Mock Mallingham with This Globe

[illegible] half resentful half [illegible] gaze on the sphere Old W[illegible] [illegible] since dead [illegible] mock him with this [illegible] contrivance of h[illegible] It [illegible] once [illegible] capable Well some [illegible] would strip the mystery [illegible] then he would probably laugh [illegible] all But not now Julia Martenet might not like it and it was just as well to humor her in trivial matters Besides he would have plenty of opportunities to gratify his curiosity later With a shrug he turned away

Subscriptions Listed for 1929 Program Including Junior Feature

The success of the Junior Chautauqua in Marion is assured members of the chautauqua board said today At noon today before the reports of the five workers out getting subscriptions had been made the total was 125 subscriptions already received Only 100 were needed to assure a Junior chautauqua for this [illegible]

The adult subscriptions for the main chautauqua program were but a few short of the required 400 this morning

The result of the canvassing in the uptown district and among those who have formerly subscribed but failed to do so this year means that Marion will enjoy a $1 300 chautauqua program this year and that a special [illegible] will be brought here to look after the children during the days of the presentation The chautauqua board will meet some time soon with a representative of the Loar Chautauqua Co [illegible] complete [illegible] of the program

[illegible] tickets purchased for the boys and girls to attend the Junior Chautauqua [illegible] will also admit [illegible] adult programs both afternoon and evening

HUGHES MAY BE HEAD OF LIQUOR LAW COMMISSION

WASHINGTON March 14—Persistent reports that Charles Evans Hughes is to be offered the chairmanship of President Hoover's law enforcement fact finding commission were given some credence today when it was learned that the former secretary of state will be an overnight guest at the White House tonight.

Robert M Hutchins, dean of the Yale law school, who has also been mentioned for a place on the committee, had a half hour's conference with the president this morning.

HOOVER ORDERS TAX REFUNDS BE MADE PUBLIC

President Accomplishes Effort Which Coalition Has Been Seeking for Months

MELLON'S SUGGESTION

Action Meets Many Objections to Treasury's Policy of Secrecy

WASHINGTON March 14—President Hoover today [illegible] that all future tax refunds [illegible] the treasury in excess of $ [illegible] be open to public inspection

This is [illegible] Mr Hoover [illegible] which [illegible] coalition of Democrats and insurgent Republicans in congress have [illegible] unsuccessfully [illegible] of congress

The announcement from the White House stated that the president's action was taken at the suggestion of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon who has heretofore been accounted an opponent of publicity for these refunds and who because of that attitude has been an incessant [illegible] of congressional sharpshooting [illegible]

Executive Order

The reform was accomplished by means of an executive order which specifically [illegible] that the public be permitted to know the reasons for any refund credit or abatement of income or profit [illegible] profits estate or gift taxes in excess of the arbitrary figure of $ [illegible]

In proposing the reform Secretary Mellon wrote the president

"The congress adopted [illegible] amendment to the first deficiency appropriation act [illegible] provision which as a matter of legal interpretation will require no material change in the procedure or practices of the bureau of internal revenue However on the assumption that this provision reflects an unexpressed congressional policy and in order that the public generally may know that there is nothing which the treasury desires to hide I am recommending your approval of the proposal submitted"

Meets Many Objections

While today's reform [illegible] not go as far as Mellon's critics in congress would like it nevertheless does meet a great many of the objections they have raised to the treasury's policy of secrecy for these tax refunds

The fight for publicity and open hearings on these refunds was led in the senate in the closing days of the last congress by Senator McKellar Democrat of Tennessee Couzens Republican of Michigan supported by Norris Republican of Nebraska and others of the so-called progressive [illegible]

Justice Monroe stated that he had given Hammond the maximum [illegible] because he blamed him for the implication of three other Marion youths in the attempted [illegible] from a Galion filling station after they had secured 10 gallons of gas [illegible] Monday night

Earl Armstrong 20 of Marion charged with the same offense pleaded not guilty but was bound over to the grand jury on $100 bond He was not able to furnish bond and was sent to jail at B[illegible]

Ward Hime [illegible] pleaded not guilty [illegible] charge of stealing [illegible] was released [illegible] and [illegible] pleaded guilty and received a fine [illegible] and costs and was released Justice Monroe stated that it was stated that Hime and [illegible] were not aware of the fact that they were riding in a stolen [illegible] and had merely accompanied the other youths on a lark

Names Hammond as Leader

He stated that Hammond was the leader of the group and consequently he received the maximum fine

Hammond was sent to the county jail at Bucyrus where he will serve the 30 day sentence and if unable to pay the fine and costs will work it out the fine at $1 50 a day

The youths were charged with the theft of the gasoline by [illegible] and Julius Roman Galion filling station operators from whom the [illegible] was [illegible] Monday night

The ruse used to secure the gasoline was so crafty when the station men went after oil and the youths escaped The Roman brothers pursued in their Chrysler roadster and passed the youths on the road to Mt Gilead Arriving in Mt Gilead they called out the sheriff and other [illegible] at Mt Gilead where the [illegible] was blocked and the youths captured

A Schorn Marion business man in whose car the boys were riding will not be able to prosecute for the theft of his car until the Crawford county charges are disposed of The car was stolen from near the City library here on March 6

CAPITOL WETS FEAR THEY'RE "SOLD OUT"

See Fact Finding Commission as Only Body of Active Dry Leaders

WASHINGTON March 14—All is not well among the capitol wets Slowly but steadily the feeling is growing among them that they have been sold out on the score of President Hoover's law enforcement fact finding commission

What originally was to have been a commission charged with ferreting out the fundamental reasons back of the breakdown of the prohibition law and the general public disregard for its observance is their fear about to materialize in a body of active dry leaders whose sole aim will be to put more teeth into a statute the wets already have branded objectionable and unenforceable

None of the congressional anti-prohibitionists wanted to be quoted on their views at present, pointing out that little could be said with propriety until after Mr Hoover actually has named his commission and the biographical records of its personnel are available for study. But rumblings of discontent were quite audible today, however, and privately a majority of the wets painted a gloomy picture of the prospects

LIQUOR, WORTH $10,000, TAKEN BY BRYAN POLICE

BRYAN, March 14—Liquor valued at $10 000 was seized by police here early today when they came upon a truck mired in a ditch

Thomas Barnhart, alleged driver of the truck, was held Officers believe the liquor was consigned for Fort Wayne agents, members of a middle west illicit liquor ring.

4 Jurors Chosen to Hear Intimate Details of Actress' "Humiliation"

NEW YORK, March 14—A bespectacled "wisp of a man" was escorted by blue-coated officialdom through the crowd jamming the entrance to a certain courtroom this afternoon. [illegible]

"Lucky bird" mumbled one of the jammed outside the courtroom.

Four jurors already have been chosen.

When the box is filled with 12 men tried and true, the plaintiff will attempt to show that she has been humiliated by Thaw because he hit her "here and there" and spanked her with a hairbrush. All of which is said to have occurred at a New Year's eve party in Thaw's New York apartment.

Thaw, denying the charges completely, declares that he wasn't even at such a party on New Year's eve, 1927 He is said to plan to call Texas Guinan to prove that he was at her club on the eve in question

Photographs of the alleged bites inflicted on portions of the anatomy will be offered in evidence by Marcia

It is interesting to note that so far none of the veniremen have offered any voluntary excuse for not being able to serve on the jury. [illegible]

HOME BUILDING PLANS MAPPED OUT FOR SPRING

Season of Construction Activity in Prospect Here, Survey Indicates

PROJECTS UNDER WAY

Majority of Builders Optimistic Over Outlook for Rest of Year

Marion's residence section will be materially increased during the coming spring and summer

This is the report from Marion builders Out of a dozen or more local builders the majority are optimistic over building and real estate prospects for the coming season

A number however will proceed [illegible] cautiously building only as the market absorbs their product During the winter months the market for houses has been slow and numerous real estate dealers and builders declare

Considerable building has been done during the winter thus throwing many new houses on the spring market The northwest and southeast sections of the city have seen most of the building activity during the last six months These sections will be the most active during the spring and summer according to present indications

MAY ASK UTILITIES TO INCREASE BONDS

Hearings for Companies Collecting "Protested Rates" Planned

COLUMBUS, March 14 — Possibility that the state utilities commission will order various public utilities in Ohio to materially increase the bonds, now on file with the commission, under which they have collected millions of dollars of protested rates, loomed today.

Gov Myers Y Cooper today announced that the commission plans to issue instructions to the public utilities which are collecting protested increased rates, under provisions of the Pence act, to appear before the commission and show cause, "if any there be" why such concerns should not "be required forwith to file additional bond, or bonds"

CHARGE FILED AGAINST MAN IN KNIFE FRAY

Clarence Pennigan Named in Murder Affidavit of Prosecutor

GOES TO GRAND JURY

Slayer of Clement Shuster To Be Arrested Before Release from Hospital

A murder charge was placed against Clarence Pennigan in an affidavit filed by Prosecuting Attorney Alfred Donithen today Pennigan is recovering in City hospital from wounds received Tuesday night in a knife battle in which Clement Shuster was killed

Pennigan had not been placed under arrest yet this afternoon according to police officials He is under guard in his hospital room and will be arrested before being released

Prosecuting Attorney Donithen said today that Pennigan's case would be considered when the grand jury is called into special session shortly after April 1 The grand jury will either return an indictment charging first or second degree murder or manslaughter or will fail to indict

Recovering Rapidly

Hospital officials stated today that Pennigan was rapidly recovering from the loss of blood as a result of several severe slashes about his face and head

The fight between Shuster the victim and Pennigan occurred in the rear seat of an automobile owned by H H Jones of Olney av when a party including the two principals Jones Wade Sublett Mrs Hazel Shuster and Miss Willie Hollard prepared to return from a dance at Agosta

Jealousy because Pennigan danced with Mrs Shuster is thought to have thrown Shuster into a rage causing him to begin slashing Pennigan with a small penknife After Shuster slashed Pennigan across the face twice Pennigan is said to have caught Shuster's hand bending the arm back toward Shuster's face With his hand clenched over Shuster's fist which held the knife Pennigan is said to have jabbed at Shuster's face Severe wounds inflicted in this manner resulted in sufficient loss of blood to cause death Shuster died 20 minutes after he was received at the City hospital

Funeral Friday

Plans for funeral services for the dead man were being made today by members of the family Services will be held at [illegible] o'clock Friday afternoon with the Rev James Siders of Delaware [illegible] Burial will be in the Marion cemetery

Shuster is survived by his wife Hazel two sons Norris and Eugene his parents five brothers and three sisters

CANDY STICK PIERCES MOUTH AS BOY FALLS

John Kessler 6, Rescued by Don Loyer, 7, After Accident

The presence of mind of seven year old Don Loyer, Oak st, probably saved six year old John Kessler, Mary st, from more serious injury when he pulled the pointed end of an all-day sucker stick from the roof of the Kessler boy's mouth, yesterday

It happened at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the boy was riding his bicycle with the stick of a candy confection in his mouth in the usual way children have of getting the last bit of flavoring from their candies.

His bicycle skidded into the mud and over the curbing, throwing him so that the pointed end of the candy stick was lodged in the roof of his mouth and two front teeth were loosened Don Loyer happened along and jerked the stick from the boy's mouth.

This morning the injured boy was unable to take foods, but his condition is not regarded as serious by his parents, Mr. and Mrs Kessler, of 567 Mary st.

Bulls Return to Power Sending Industrials Up

RADIO GROUP CENTER OF BUYING INTEREST

G. M. C. Leads Motors to Higher Range of Prices

MONEY 7 PER CENT

Amusement Shares Carry Wednesday's Rallies Higher

NEW YORK, March 14—Brilliant advances in prices of the industrial and specialty stocks at the beginning of trading today signaled the return of the bulls to power in the stock market, and the hurried exit of the bears.

Speculative interest centered around the radio group. Wall street is convinced that a new hook-up between the Radio Corporation and other powerful concerns will be announced in due time and for that reason the big speculators are buying Radio, Western Union, Victor Talking Machine, Columbia Graphophone, etc. The new Radio stock started the day with a block of 25,000 shares going over at 95½, up ½ from Wednesday's close, after which the stock advanced to 97¼. Western Union commanded 212 and Columbia Graphophone was in demand above 75. Radio, old, jumped 20 points to 487.

Call money renewed at seven per cent.

The motor stocks moved upward under the lead of General Motors, Chrysler and Packard. General Motors rose to 85⅛ in active trading and Nash sold actively around 108. Stocks of the amusement companies carried yesterday's rallies to slightly higher price levels. Paramount pushing through to 70 for a new high record for 1929. Bethlehem Steel led the independents with a two-point jump to 105½ and U. S. Steel common at 186¼ showed a new gain of three points.

Cotton sold up about 75 cents a bale, on a better home and foreign demand. Grain prices were fractionally higher, corn fractionally lower. Oil prices were steady and copper unchanged around 20 to 20¼ cents a pound.

NOTICE

Edwin Bittinger, whose place of residence is unknown and cannot be ascertained, will take notice that on the 11th day of March, 1929, the plaintiff, Cora E. Staley, filed her petition against him in the Municipal Court of Marion, Ohio, the same being cause No. 59, in said Court, for damages for personal injury; and that an attachment has been issued and levied on personal property belonging to the defendant, Edwin Bittinger.

The prayer of said petition is for damages for personal injury in the sum of $1,000.00 and for the appropriation of said attached property.

Said Edwin Bittinger is required to answer on or before the 6th day of May, 1929.

GET STOCK SHARES

Local Residents Profit by Action of Cities Service Co.

Several hundred shareholders in the Cities Service Co. will participate in the stock distribution recommended yesterday by the board in New York City, Martin Verberg, local representative said today.

The board voted to give each stockholder four shares for one. The division will be made following formal approval at the annual stockholders' meeting April 1.

The new stock shares opened at $30 on the New York exchange yesterday and closed at $31. Both old and new shares will be sold here until the distribution is officially effected, Verberg said.

This is the second stock division in recent years, the last having taken place four years ago when a five for one division was made.

Probably whisky is as good for as many things as any other drug is good for.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Eggs are now on the second lap of their sudden downward spurt this week with another two cents off on the dozen. This drop, which is not only on Marion markets, but on others as well, is the signal for a substantial drop that will probably hold during the summer.

At the beginning of the week the price hovered around 35 cents, but made a sudden drop Wednesday to 33 cents, which was followed up today with price standing at 31 cents.

Meats will have a tendency to remain about the same as yesterday, but with conditions tending towards some decided changes Friday or Saturday. If anything, the prices are yet on the upgrade from the jumps made yesterday.

Fruits and vegetables remain the same, no changes predicted until the local gardens begin to produce.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 14 — Erratic price fluctuations, with values advancing over 2c from lower levels early only to drop back again, showed a nervous tone in the local wheat market yesterday and again confirmed crop scares as the principal influences. Interest in other grains continued limited and, with the exception of rye, price ranges were small.

Wheat was 1-2@7-8c lower at the close. Corn was 1-2@3-4c lower; oats unchanged to 1-2c off; and rye 1-2@7-8c lower. Winnipeg wheat futures closed 1-4@1-2c down.

Locals Press Market

Following the previous day's sharp advance, locals were disposed to press the wheat market early. But scale down buying of the sort that has advanced the open interest some 35,000,000 bu in the past two months took all that was offered at the slightly lower prices, and when pit shorts found offerings light they bid prices up sharply to cover. New high levels on the present upturn, however, were attractive for profit taking and values again declined.

The aggressive and persistent accumulation of wheat, which the trade assumes is predicated on prospects of crop scares and farm relief action favorable to the speculative holder, is becoming of itself a great factor in the buying. Yesterday's report showing a total open interest of 115,525,000 bu, an advance of 1,500,000 bu on the previous day's upturn, was responsible for some of the buying.

Failure of the local market to fully reflect disappointing cables also caused purchases and further scattered unfavorable crop reports were received. Liverpool closed only ¼@¾d higher despite our rally of Tuesday. Heavy deliveries were said to account for the weakness there.

Crop Reports Conflict

Crop reports were still rather confusing, but both the Kansas state and the government weekly statements spoke of damage in sections by high winds. A local house reported that from 500 inquiries sent out through their Kansas City offices it was estimated the section from which the complaints are coming represents about 7 percent of the Kansas acreage. Advices so far from these sections place damage from 10 to 35 percent, and some even say that wheat is being plowed up.

Meanwhile, news of the movement of grain continued mainly bearish. An improvement in export demand was checked Tuesday by the sharply advancing prices. Flour sales are called slow and spot wheat demand continues quiet, although Winnipeg again reported foreigners buying futures.

An official estimate places the yield of wheat in India at 80 per cent of normal.

Cooler weather is forecast for the belt, and while general rains were received, the sections most needing it received but light precipitation. Central Canada received moisture, but western plains were not in the storm area.

Corn was practically stationary at $1 for May the balance of the session. Trade continued light and local in character. There was a little commission house buying on the unfavorable weather. Receipts were a little larger than a week ago and shipping demand was not urgent in any of the markets.

Country offerings were light, with 16,000 bu. booked from Illinois points, and offerings from outside markets were not in evidence until the close when a local industry which had withdrawn from the spot market announced purchase of 50,000 bu. to come from Kansas City.

In the cash market wheat was steady to 2c up, corn unchanged to ½c off, oats steady, rye dull, barley steady.

Cars inspected: Wheat, 12, corn, 175, oats, 21, rye 10, and barley 15.

CLEARINGS LOWER

Clearing house reports at the Fahey bank show that $18,159.41 was cleared in the Marion banks yesterday. A week ago the total was $23,540.83.

"Happy Harmony Boys" Draw Big Crowds at Mansfield

Jack and Gene, the "Happy Harmony Boys" from radio station WLW in Cincinnati, attracted about 50 Marion residents to their program last night in the Mansfield high school auditorium. The Harmony boys were in Mansfield Tuesday and Wednesday of this week under auspices of the Mansfield Y. W. C. A.

The auditorium, which will seat more than 1,500, was crowded at every performance. Three performances each day was the original program outlined by the radio entertainers but due to the crowds they were forced to give eight performances during their two-day stay.

According to several of the local people who went to Mansfield last night, approximately 1,500 were turned away due to lack of room. Although arrangements are still in the making it is thought probable that Jack and Gene will be in Marion soon.

Secret societies have charms that are often displayed on watch chains.

BEECH TELEPHONE COMPLAINT FILED

Marion County Residents, Without Service 5 Years, Appeal to State

A five-year-old telephone dispute in Richland township Marion county was brought before the state utilities commission in Columbus today.

Harvey Fickosh and [illegible] other residents of that township filed a complaint against the Ohio Associated Telephone Co of Marion and the Ohio Central Telephone Corp of Caledonia.

The complaint states that they have received no telephone service since March 1 1924 when the Beech Telephone Co abandoned its service.

According to the petition the Ohio Telephone Corp claims the right to furnish service. But the residents in the township want the Marion company to furnish the service.

They ask an order of the state utilities commission requiring the service be given them through the Marion exchange.

The Beech district has been without phone service since the Beech Telephone Co property was sold at auction on the courthouse square here about five years ago. It was bid in by the Caledonia Telephone Co which later sold out to the Ohio Telephone Corporation operating concern of several exchanges.

Residents of the Beech district want to be served through the Marion exchange because most of their business dealings are in this city it is explained.

A J Berry manager of the Ohio Associated Co said today that his company is willing to serve the Beech community but will not do so unless the state commission authorizes it. This must be done by official transfer of the Beech section to the local company s territory.

I want to tell you how
I coaxed him to eat—

If you are tired — lack pep—if your skin is not clear — if your appetite is gone? — you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"Once I was worried.

Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic, that it had been successful for over 100 years, that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich red blood there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly, firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red blood cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Wild Cat Money

W[illegible] in the old old days [illegible] business man had to [illegible] and know his banks [illegible] today when Mr [illegible] $10 bill or $20 bill [illegible] much as a glance [illegible] for granted that the [illegible]

[illegible] 318 Linden [illegible] has a [illegible] cat money that he [illegible] his belongings [illegible] of silk paper is a [illegible] Merchants Bank of New [illegible] for $2 [illegible] dated May 20 1857 [illegible] Henry Johnson [illegible] cent cashier [illegible] old old days the [illegible] found wild cat [illegible] sort in his cash [illegible] this money he had to know which banks were good and which were bad. If he didn't know he probably was [illegible] when it came time to settle [illegible]

Mr [illegible] has kept the [illegible] since 1857 as a keepsake. [illegible] grandfather [illegible] who died in that year [illegible] was a [illegible] man.

Under Lock and Key

ONE of Marion [illegible] has a fire chief who [illegible] careful. He makes certain that the fire station is securely locked [illegible] key.

This system of [illegible] village property [illegible] resulted in [illegible] situation for [illegible] the village home owners recently according to reports. When [illegible] citizen's home caught fire and a call was made for the village firefighters it was discovered that the chief was out of town with the key to the station house in his pocket.

A speedy search was made for the [illegible] official and he was finally located and brought back in a fast moving automobile.

In the meantime the flames had been extinguished with the aid of the department so that no serious damage resulted.

Amusing the Kids

MARION'S automatic dial telephone system as a whole is considerably superior to the old [illegible] exchange plant where a number had to be transmitted through a [illegible] voiced young woman at the switchboard.

In addition to furnishing more efficient service the dial system provides a handy plaything for juvenile members of local households.

It is not an uncommon occurrence for a local resident to answer a phone ring and in response to the customary "Hello" hear a lisping infant voice chattering about Santa Claus, Daddy or some other of the few characters included in childish limited list of acquaintances.

The dialing by the youngsters is usually done when older members of the family are not [illegible] [illegible] started on the [illegible] however [illegible] will get to the phone whenever opportunity offers.

Church Funds

SUNDAY school and church officers are ordinarily honest [illegible] it is expected. Sometimes however they are absent minded and make mistakes just as do persons not engaged in church work.

It is [illegible] that recently when the annual report of a local congregation was issued one of the members was not given credit for a $1.50 payment made to the church funds. Naturally desiring to have full credit for his year's contributions to the cause he made inquiry. The $1.50 had never reached the church coffers the record showed.

He recalled that he had handed the money to one of the prominent members of the church whom he had met on the street. That devout parishioner remembered the incident and felt sure that he had turned in the $1.50.

He decided to investigate before making any positive assertions however and going home that evening searched through his desk and every other spot where the money might have been mislaid.

He found the $1.50 in the pocket of his last winter's overcoat.

NAME COMMITTEE

Nevada Church Society To Hold Thankoffering Meeting

NEVADA March 14—Members of the Missionary society of the Methodist church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. L. Kuenzli.

The lesson study "Africa" was led by Mrs. Catherine Hughes and Mrs. Ethel Keltner. Mrs. W. A. Nonnamaker and Mrs. Mary Smith read "Messages from the Drum Call." The teachers tenure bill to give school teachers life jobs after a three year probation period was defeated in the Ohio house eighty-four to thirty four Those behind it urged that it would increase the efficiency of teachers and stabilize the teaching body There can be no question but what it would stabilize the teaching body all right

Georges Clemenceau "The Tiger" has recovered from a six weeks siege of influenza and has resumed his writing getting up at midnight and working till 4 30 a m meantime munching cakes and chocolate What a constitution that man must have!

Senator Brookhart of Iowa has offered President Hoover a farm plan providing for a $1 500 000 000 stabilization fund for the handling of surplus farm products One thing we always liked about the Hon Smith W was the extreme modesty of his demands looking to the protection of our farming interests

Our great government shipping experiment up to date has cost the country $3 675-000,000 We have received from it about $400 000 000 and have yet on hand two really good vessels though they are in need of reconditioning and a couple of hundred that come nearer to being liabilities than assets And yet the cries for government ownership and management are heard from the theorists the land over

A Sad Story

It's a sad story which comes from Santa Barbara, California, telling of the death in a hospital there of Colonel John Reginald McLean as the result of an automobile accident while he and his bride were enjoying their honeymoon The colonel suffered a fractured skull and his bride suffered slight injuries when their chauffeur attempted to pass a truck on the highway Monday and their car collided with another automobile

Colonel McLean and his bride who was the widow of Frederick F Peabody the millionaire collar manufacturer of New York met on a battlefield in France, where he was serving as an officer in the American army and she as a war nurse As Kathleen Burke she won the title "Angel of France" because of her wonderful work as a nurse and it was while nursing him so it is surmised that they were first drawn to each other The war over, they returned to America She married Peabody but upon the death of the latter the romance of the battlefield was revived and they were married in Santa Barbara two weeks ago

And now the colonel is dead and the romance of a love which had its inception a decade ago is ended by death after but ten days of happiness

Pence Law Repealed.

The Ohio general assembly has repealed the Pence law under which the public service corporations of the state had legal authority to raise their rates without the authority of the public utilities commission [illegible] as the repealing measure is enrolled and signed by the presiding officers of the two houses of the general assembly it will go to the governor and receive his signature

The Pence bill should have never been enacted into a law It was an objectionable measure just as are laws which take from local communities the right to bargain for the services of public utilities are objectionable It was another of the laws which take the principle of self government from a community

Even though it was obvious in this respect public feeling against it might not have developed to the extent to force its repeal had it not had the further fault of tending to cause public service corporations to go to excess It had a tendency to make them to use a bit of slang, "cop," They gained from it an unjustified esteem for their powers We had illustration of that in this city when one of our public service corporations because of the fact that the city council would not subscribe to terms presented by it which terms were then before the state utilities commission deliberately attempted to raise them above and beyond the rates which were then being considered by the commission There are other instances which might be cited to illustrate how the law was being held as a club over communities We recall one instance in which an attorney of a public utility practically threatened to use the law to punish a community because it refused to agree to the rate schedules demanded by the company Had we not at the time been opposed to the law this would have prejudiced us against it A law which can thus be utilized as a club should have no place on our statute books

But the Pence law has at last after eight years of operation been repealed We would have preferred a simple repealer believing it safer than the Carpenter bill which has passed the general assembly But it is a significant fact that the Carpenter bill passed both houses without a dissenting vote It is fairly safe to figure with such a reflexion of the public feeling against it that should time show that the Carpenter measure does not fill the bill it will be so amended as best to serve the interests of the people of the state

A bill has been passed by the Quebec legislature to do away with all beer and liquor signs along the highways of the province We assume that the law was prompted by a humane desire not to shock visiting American motorists

A Michigan negro of forty three who at sixteen stole some shotgun shells who ten years ago pleaded guilty to a liquor charge and four years later threw a jug at a policeman who was raiding a poker party now faces a life sentence for the possession of a quart of liquor Candidly that life for a pint law may reasonably be held to be just a little severe

A Real Ace

An Ohioan who seems to have every requisite for his new position has received an important appointment at Washington Young David Ingalls of Cleveland who has been dubbed the "flying legislator" because he went regularly by airplane to and from legislative sessions at Columbus is the new assistant secretary of the navy in charge of aviation Young energetic able practical Ingalls should be the ideal man for the job He holds the distinguished service medal and the British distinguished flying cross for his work in the war when he was still in his teens The navy's only ace he was put in command of an English squadron and his record of six planes and a balloon that he sent down in two months of skirmishing is a bright spot in his service career

Then Ingalls came back to the states to finish his law training at Harvard and to begin his practice in Cleveland As a representative from Cuyahoga county he exemplified his belief in aviation by flying between Cleveland and Columbus regularly and just a couple of weeks ago was in a position to point with elation to the fact that he had been the only one of fifteen legislators to arrive on time at the session The rest of them had left the northern part of the state by train and bad weather had delayed the trains He was chairman of the joint committee on aviation in the Ohio legislature and was one of the house experts on tax problems

Young Ingalls should prove one of the aces in the federal administration

Head Movements in Infants.

BY ROYAL S COPELAND M D

Infants and young children sometimes develop peculiar movements of the head They are painful to observe and most distressing to the parents

These abnormal performances take several different forms In one of them there is a constant rolling of the head first to one side and then to the other Or it may be a nodding, a back and forward motion

These peculiar movements are quite regular and rhythmic in character There may be as many as thirty or forty to the minute

Doubtless you have seen cases of "nystagmus" By this is meant a constant movement of the eyes They are never at rest

Sometimes such movements of the head as I have described are associated with nystagmus But they are unlike the eye disturbance in that they appear only when the head is unsupported The eye movements are constantly present

Children who suffer from lack of sunlight and proper food are its victims Everything that causes rickets is a factor

Any infant past three or four months in age may have it Fortunately it is overcome before the second birthday Improved health and right feeding cause it to disappear

"Head rolling" is another of these nervous ailments As a result of it all the hair may be rubbed off the back of the head

This form of affliction differs from the first one I described It is a voluntary action The other is from a nervous disturbance and can not be controlled by the child Head rolling is due to the effort of the child to stop itching of the skin of the scalp or to relieve pain in the ear When the exciting trouble is removed the head movements stop

A third affliction similar in nature is called "head banging" The mother is alarmed by the force with which the baby bangs its head against the sides of the crib

Pain in the head of a severe nature or pain in the ears may be responsible In all such cases the ears must be examined

The last of these peculiar troubles is described as "head dropping" There seems to be a lack of strength in the neck Unless it is supported the head falls backward or forward

Children who have this disorder are unlikely to be entirely normal mentally At least the symptom raises the suspicion that all is not right Such youngsters are likely to be backward in their physical and mental development

In every such case either of head dropping, or any of the other conditions I have mentioned the family doctor should be consulted He will examine the child with great care and determine what should be done to make the child comfortable and normal

Editorial Opinion.

THE RUSSIAN SATURN

Just who is right our American sympathizers with the soviet government and friends of recognition of that government by the United States including distinguished senators of this government and eminent or lesser publicists, the writer or Fred Lange safety engineer who recently addressed the Cincinnati Laundry and Allied Trades club

The propaganda favoring recognition of the soviet government goes on apace It is fostered by secret foes of American democracy and the present industrial system and by men sworn to support the constitution and laws of the United States as well as by certain church denominations and peace societies without number These agencies declare Russia to be a government worthy to have place with the Christian sovereignties of the world which believe in an industrial system that is based upon individual initiative and supported and extended by capitalistic accretion and resource

Mr Lange who spent three years in Russia in intimate study of the workings of the soviet methods asserts not only that the bolshevik experiment in industry has failed but that the entire moral fabric of the Russian nation has been wrecked by the proletarian formula He alleges that this formula was forced upon the people by leaders who have repudiated every principle of civilization which has been held dear by nations since the earliest organizations of society into groups of men and women who had aspired and yearned to find above the muck and mire of earthly instinct and desire a something that would clothe them with that cleanliness and dignity which lifts mankind above the level of the brute

Russia said Lange with its bolshevik program is opposed to every tenet of American civilization This investigator who speaks from three years experience as against the three months experience of Senator Wheeler told how in Russia virtue in woman now is mocked at by bolshevik disciples as a relic of bourgeoise morality the family had become a thing of no importance human nature a weakness and the conception of God a rejected delusion

The bolshevik is the avowed enemy of religion and the state the champion of atheism The monster created by Lenin and Trotzky like Frankenstein's demon has grown beyond the power of decent moral control ravens upon the blood of opposition under Stalin and his compeers and begins to devour its own children A poetic justice has made Trotzky one of its snarling victims

Who is right Bishop Blake of the Methodist church Senator Borah the reds pinks and yellows of American communism or this man who tells of what he has seen and experienced in the "paradise" of proletarianism which has replaced the former government of the czars —Cincinnati Enquirer

ELIMINATING THE AMBER LIGHT

They have been experimenting in Cleveland with the elimination of the amber signal in the traffic lights and using only the red and the green The tests have proved successful in downtown streets and the simplified system is being extended throughout the city Where it has been tried a marked diminution of the number of drivers who disobey the traffic signals has been observed and recorded

The impulse of a driver approaching a traffic light is to keep on and cross the street when the green light goes off and the amber light comes on as he nears the intersection He feels that he has a few seconds of grace though the traffic regulations say no The impulse of a driver stopped at a red light is to start the instant the amber light appears He too feels that he has a few seconds of grace though the traffic regulations say no When the moving driver and the stationary driver act on their similar impulses at the same time as they not infrequently do there is likely to be a collision

Perhaps the psychological effect of the elimination of the amber light would be permanently good A driver would be more likely to stop when the red light flashed in his face than he is when the amber light appears because he would not even imagine he had a few seconds of grace And the stationary driver waiting for his signal would be less likely to start too soon with the red light against him all the time until it changed to green It seems as if the elimination of the amber light might be a reform that really would improve existing conditions —Ohio State Journal

The Calendar.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

There are perfectionists who want to change the calendar of the civilized world so that we shall have thirteen months a year [illegible] twelve and that each month shall [illegible] twenty eight days instead [illegible] arrangement by which seven have thirty one days four have thirty [illegible] eight in most years twenty nine every fourth year

Then [illegible] out there will be four weeks in every month and the [illegible] day will fall on the same date all around the year If this had only been thought of when the calendar was first contrived or when Julius Caesar made his great reform [illegible] years ago or even when Pope Gregory [illegible] years ago, made his amendment of Caesar's reform how happy we should have been Then Phoebus could have driven his chariot around the zodiac of time with a single bolt rolling smoothly through even months with their weeks fitted together as exactly as the squares of a concrete highway and the extra days—for days there must always be in any calendar —made into holidays and distributed as a [illegible] as so many gas supply and lubrication stations

But alas the problem was not thus [illegible] in those unscientific and unsystematic times when it might have been arranged [illegible] too much upsetting and now it is thrown on our shoulders already burdened with a thousand other discontinuities and maladjustments of these busy times

So the question makes itself insistently heard Is it worth while to break the thread of affairs now by suddenly measuring the familiar months and casting them again in a new shape? It is well to admit that calendar making involves an insuperable incommensurability so that the best that can be done is to arrange a year in compromise and the only justification for any change at all must be an increase of general convenience

The primary trouble is not with the number of days in a month but with the number of days in a year There is an essential incommensurability between the period called a day which is determined by the earth's rotation on its axis and the period called a year which depends upon the time taken by the earth to make one circuit around the sun With our system of numeration we can not make them fit

The case recalls that of the circumference and the diameter of a circle They too are incommensurable If we have no common unit of length If you could bend the diameter of a circle around the circumference you would find that it would take three full diameters and about one seventh of another to go completely around the circumference So if you try to lay the chain of years around the circle of the solar days you find that it takes 365 full days and about one quarter of another day to fill the circuit

If you could cut the length of the day to suit yourself you might solve the difficulty but that you can not do because the length of the day is determined by a natural phenomenon over which we have no control viz the time taken by the earth to make a turn on its axis There are two measures of this time called respectively the solar—or sun—day and the sidereal—or star day They differ slightly in length but both are equally incommensurate with the year The ordinary calendar is concerned only with the solar days Nature having no regard for our mathematics has paid no attention to making her phenomena keep step to our drumbeat It is we and not she that must make the adjustments—if we can The calendar is wholly a human invention partaking of the imperfection that its origin implies and whether we divide the year into twelve or into thirteen months is a matter of as much indifference to nature as is the fiction that we can make noon come an hour earlier by passing a daylight saving law — Copyright 1929 International Feature Service Inc

PROGRAM OF HOME BUILDING PLANNED

One situation that makes Schell optimistic is the large number of families which he says are moving into Marion. The majority of these people according to Schell are already working here and have found it less costly to maintain their families in Marion than to commute to their out of town homes.

Another duplex will be started on East Center st soon by Max Yarrington. Permit for the structure has been obtained.

Stewart G Glasener who built chiefly for sale has had sufficient confidence in the ability of Marion residents to absorb these new houses to erect 10 house this winter.

Glasener Building Homes

Glasener's houses are now practically all completed. With what he considers good prospects for the future Glasener will continue to build during the spring and summer. Sales have been good this winter Glasener reports.

Another local builder who has been active during the winter is Leslie J Adams. Seven new residences near Olney av and Bellefontaine av are evidence of Adams activity during the last few months. These houses are now about ready for occupancy and will be placed on the market.

One thing apparent in the reports of numerous local builders is that vacant houses are gradually filling up. At least the better class of house are finding ready takers both in renters and buyers.

W F Jones head of the Jones Realty Co will proceed cautiously with the erection of new houses according to his statement recently. Rather than throw a lot of new buildings on the market Jones feels that the greatest need at present is a reconditioning of old houses. There are many houses in the city Jones believes that can be made serviceable and attractive by remodeling.

Building in Vernon Heights promises to be active during the spring and summer Ralph J Lewis [illegible] realtor said today. Prospects at present are that the addition in the southeast section of the city will enjoy its most active season during the next few months.

Three new residences are now in the process of construction and will be completed soon. Approximately 12 houses are in prospect in Vernon Heights before the end of the summer Lewis said today.

One new house is now nearing completion and another is soon to be started on Mt Vernon av and the Mt Gilead rd. The house soon to be completed is located on the north side of the avenue near the city limits. The other is located on the south side of the road between the mausoleum and the Marion county home.

AKRON March 14—The Little York club an alleged gambling resort at Northfield near here was under surveillance by county authorities today following a raid late yesterday when four deputies routed about 200 men and women from the place with tear gas.

The deputies led by Chief John Sellars of the county [illegible] squad were breaking into the place the front of which is a barbecue stand when a door opened leading into the back room.

As Sellers and his men started to enter the men and women attempted to rush them. The deputies donned their gas mask and brought their tear gas guns into play. The patrons rushed outside breaking one door from its hinges.

They then set about disabling the deputies automobile slashing tail puncturing the tire [illegible] were thrown at newspapermen in another car and the reporters [illegible] away and telephoned the sheriff's office for more deputies who were slow in arriving.

Residents of Northfield have threatened to ask the governor to intercede unless county authorities close the alleged gambling house. No arrests were made yesterday and the deputies said they could find no evidence of gambling other than a number of blackboards.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

He has a very slow backswing. The club seems to quiver in his hands as he brings it back but he drives [illegible] the ball in a [illegible] vigorous manner. His brassie shot was a [illegible] and he was down in two putts for a seven.

"Too many looking at the first tee" he commented.

His drive on number two 249 yards was fine and again he had a great brassie shot. He holed out for a four.

"WHAT is our favorite shot" I asked him. "You look awful [illegible] good with your brassie but I notice you are not using your irons."

"I haven't [illegible] favorite shot. I'm just learning this game" he smiled.

He hooked his drive on number three 400 yard but again his brassie was a hell ringer. His second brassie was good too and he laid his approach dead. He blew an easy putt however and walked off the green without holing out. He had to take a six.

He took another six on the fourth a 164 yard hole because he overshot the green with his brassie. On this green Mrs Warner holed a [illegible] yard putt and as she sank it John D shook hands with her and handed her a dime. It was observed that she wore a bracelet made of new dimes.

A clean cut drive a neat [illegible] and two putts gave John D a four on the 168 yard fifth hole.

THE star shot of the day was made by the oil king on the 470 yard sixth hole. He was lying five in the rough and before him was a tall hill and a stretch of water. Taking his old reliable brassie he addressed the ball carefully. Whang he cut into it with a fine follow through and it went sailing straight as an arrow for the green stopping ten feet from the flag. He was down in two putts for a seven.

"That brassie was the only [illegible] made today" he said gleefully. "It was a [illegible] shot worthy of a first [illegible] golfer."

On the short seventh 166 yards he took a four missing a five foot putt.

He made a par four on the [illegible] yard eighth hole and called it a day. He never shoots more than eight holes. I figured his card 42 for eight holes which indicates he could break 100 for eighteen holes.

"I BELIEVE in moderation" he said. "I could [illegible] a few more holes without [illegible] but I don't believe it's the thing to do."

"What will you do with the rest of your day?" I asked him as we wended our way toward his auto[illegible] [illegible] in Neptune [illegible]

"Well" he smiled. "I'm going to my home and take a shower and a rest before I have light luncheon. (It was now 10:15 [illegible] m.) After luncheon I will take a nap and then go for a motor ride. I will [illegible] again before dinner and after dinner I will read [illegible] before going to bed about 9:00 p m."

"What do you read Mr Rockefeller—the classics detective stories [illegible]?"

"Oh most everything. But nothing [illegible] I like the Bible as well as anything."

Jury To Get Embezzlement Case Early Friday

COLUMBUS March 14—The case of the four prominent Ohio men on trial in common pleas court here for the embezzlement of $187,000 of the funds of the now defunct Citizens Mortgage Co will go to the jury early tomorrow according to indications today as the closing arguments were being made to the court.

Those charged with the embezzlement are Harvey C Smith former secretary of state and former resident of Zanesville Frank J Stein former president of the Ohio National Bank [illegible] and Ray Patterson and A [illegible] Quetrican former directors of the [illegible] company.

The failure of the company it is charged caused a loss of approximately $2,000,000 to about 2,000 stockholders in various parts of Ohio.

300 MAROONED

Ranchers Trapped by Storm While Searching For Boy

GORDON Neb March 14—Three hundred ranchers who went out to search for six-year-old William Reeves, trapped in a blinding blizzard on the plains of northwestern Nebraska near here, were themselves marooned by the storm today.

Futile efforts have been made to get food to them. Trucks which started through last night to the Reeves ranch, were blocked by six foot drifts.

Attempts to get into communication with the second party were unsuccessful.

Junior's testimony yesterday declared Arthur gave Melvin an orange.

Lad Calm on Stand

Junior was placed on the witness stand was calm. He told how he had hid behind a telephone pole and watched the two Arnolds carry Melvin to an automobile and then drive away. This the boy witness said was on the night of Dec 27.

Melvin Horst disappeared from the streets of Orrville that night and has not been heard from since. Authorities believe he is dead the victim of foul play.

The Hanna boy's testimony was the most important link in the chain of circumstantial evidence by which authorities hope to send Elias and Arthur to the penitentiary.

Told of Alleged Threats

The jury of seven men and five women were also told of threats made by Arthur Arnold against Ray Horst Melvin's uncle and marshal of the village of Orrville. James Caskey swore to that evidence. Caskey's story was corroborated by another witness, John Kelner. Both Kelner and Caskey are deputy marshals at Orrville.

According to Caskey the elder Arnold threatened to get even with the missing lad's uncle because of his (Arnold's) arrest on liquor charges.

The prosecution is attempting to establish a theory for the kidnaping. It charges that the Arnolds abducted Melvin because of this grudge against the boy's uncle.

FRIDAY NIGHT LAST FOR INCOME TAXES

Federal Man To Receive Returns Until Midnight on Closing Day

Friday night at midnight is the official deadline for the filing of income tax returns. Chance W. Leach of the internal revenue office at Columbus said today. All returns must be filed by that time.

Leach has been receiving returns and filing them in the law library of the court house here since March 8. He reports that on the average of 100 persons daily has been filing their returns with him. As the deadline nears a last-minute rush is expected that will increase the daily average. Leach will be on duty at his office here until midnight of the closing day. Tonight he will receive returns until 8 o'clock.

In the event that it is impossible to go to the courthouse to file returns it is permissible for the taxpayers to draw up their tax statements and forward them to the collector's office at Columbus after certification before a notary.

All partnerships or corporations must file returns regardless of profits or losses for the year. Any individual who has received $5,000 gross or more must file a return irrespective of losses.

Exemption Schedule

The official exemption schedule allows a single man an income of $1,500 without tax. This exemption is increased to $3,500 for married persons and an additional allowance of $400 is made for each other dependent. However, it is possible for a single man to assume the head-of-the-house status, and in this event is given the same allowance as a married person, provided he has one or more dependents. The allowance of $400 for each additional dependent also holds in this case.

The advantages of filing returns with Beach is not taken advantage of by local residents only. Several men, most of them traveling salesmen, from Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and other cities, have filed their returns with Mr Beach. His territory is not limited.

SET OPENING DATE FOR PARK PAVILION

Start of Crystal Lake Season Scheduled for April 6

One of the real indications that spring and summer are approaching was the announcement made today by Fred B. Sheriff Crystal Lake park manager of the opening of the dance pavilion at the park Saturday April [illegible] Richards 1[illegible]-piece Victor Record[illegible] orchestra will furnish music for this the first of a series of week end dances which will precede the grand opening of the park amusements some time about the middle of May.

Seventy five trees were planted on the park grounds last fall in keeping with the improvement policy of the park company. This year will see the addition of a fun house, several games and other features new at the park. Further improvements will be made at the bathing beach and if the danger element can be eliminated from water slides that apparatus will be installed. Skid ball alleys were also given out in the list of probable additions to the park.

The interests of Addie Hain play ground supervisor and overseer of the park grounds will be included in the improvements in that many new features will be added to his part of the park amusement and tentative plans have been made for a log cabin playhouse in which his toys can be placed and a larger playhouse for [illegible] for the children.

Seven separate horns controlled by two sets of three keys each and blown from a common mouthpiece make up a novel musical instrument for orchestras.

HOUGHTON TO QUIT HIS ENGLISH POST

Ambassador Houghton Will Return to United States in April

WASHINGTON March 14—Alanson B Houghton American ambassador to Great Britain probably will return to the United States early in April and retire from his post it was learned here today.

Houghton's desire to retire was described as definite and irrevocable. His resignation was received on March 1 along with other customary and formal resignations of high ranking diplomatic officers but action on it has been withheld until his personal desires [illegible] be ascertained.

It is not probable that any successor will be appointed for at least a month as President Hoover has determined not to make any immediate diplomatic appointments.

The gossip of the capital is that the post likely will be offered to Charles G. Dawes who relinquished the vice presidency on March 4.

Gas Pains Indigestion

Bradley's Drug Store Says Pleasant to Take Elixir Must Help Poor Distressed Stomachs or Money Gladly Refunded

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness that you think your heart is going to stop beating.

Your stomach may be so distended that your breathing is short and gaspy.

You are dizzy and pray for quick relief—what's to be done?

Just one tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin and in ten minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and naturally.

Oh! What blessed relief; but why not get rid of such attacks altogether? Why have chronic indigestion at all?

Especially when Bradley's Drug Store or any druggist anywhere guarantees Dare's Mentha Pepsin, a pleasant elixir to end indigestion or money back.—Adv.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the approaching marriage, March 17, of Miss Sylvia Scherff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Scherff, 659 Pearl st., to Dwight F. Foreman, son of P. F. Foreman, 733 East Church st., came as a surprise to members of the Delta Theta Tau sorority when Miss Frieda Foreman entertained the members at a shower for Miss Beulah Hammond, who will be married Saturday, March 30, to George Day.

The announcement was written on a small card in the corsage of roses and sweet peas presented Miss Betty Raub as the award for high score at bridge. Miss Hammond's gifts were presented her in a treasure hunt.

Miss Thelma Slagle won second honors in bridge and Miss Gladys Brobst was consoled. A two course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Scherff and Miss Lucile Foreman, at four small tables. A color note of rose and green, colors chosen by Miss Hammond for her wedding, predominated in the appointments, with rose buds in crystal vases, centering the tables. Rosebuds were given as place favors.

Out-of-town guests at the announcement and shower were Mrs. Thelma Hall, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Warren Ballentine, of Columbus.

In a short business meeting, Miss Mildred Partridge was elected sergeant-at-arms to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Hammond. Miss Mildred Hollandshead will entertain the sorority in two weeks at her home, 815 East Center st.

Dance Club
Elects Officers

Charles Lehmer was elected president of the Nine to Twelve Dance club when its last dance of the season was held last night at Schwinger hall. Assisting him in his duties the coming year will be W. N. Sams, vice president, and Paul Schwemly, secretary and treasurer. Other members of the executive committee, besides the officers, are Frank Steffen, Lawrence Davis and Jesse Lolt. Preceding the election of officers a box lunch was served, and dancing was enjoyed. Special dances featured St. Patrick's day, and included various favor and robber dances. The hall was attractively decorated in the festive colors of St. Patrick's day, with a large shamrock-encrusted light in the center of the hall. A confetti and serpentine dance concluded the program. A program for the coming dance season will be decided on March 19 at a meeting of the executive board at the home of the president, 191 East Walnut st. Announcement was made that the dances would be a continuance of the former type of social affair.

If I Were A Man

I'D wear garters.

I wouldn't go blithely calling on my best girl with socks flapping around my ankles and a bare expanse of hairy leg exposed to the cold, cold world every time I sat down.

I'd remember my own pet sentiments about a girl appearing in public with the seams of her stockings slightly askew, or a few wrinkles marring the smoothness of their fit around the ankle, and I'd try to be consistent by taking a little thought about my own.

After all, there's nothing beautiful in a bare masculine shin, and I'd spare the Girl Friend's feelings by keeping mine concealed. It's all very well to be collegiate, and fads are sometimes interesting, but when it comes to a question of neatness and good taste a smooth sock held in place by garters has it all over the wrinkled sloppy kind. No girl likes a careless dresser.

(Copyright, 1929)

If I Were A Girl

I WOULDN'T take a man over.

No matter how much money he had and how willing he might be to spend it, I wouldn't set out deliberately to make him spend it on ME. I wouldn't order the most elaborate dinner I could think of and suddenly develop an uncontrollable taste for expensive out-of-the-season delicacies.

When he asked me what show I would like to see, I wouldn't name the one that was charging the highest prices. If he suggested supper after the theater, I wouldn't wrack my brain to think of the night club that cost the most, and, once there I wouldn't have an insatiable appetite for caviar.

A man may be a reckless spender and as generous as they come, but he hates to feel that a girl has picked him for an easy mark.

If a girl is wise, she'll keep her taking-over inclinations under control until she's heard the wedding bells.

30 ENROLLED

Induction Ceremony Held at Meeting of Tri-Hi Club

The beautiful Circle of Light induction ceremony of the Girl Reserves was used when 30 members were taken into the Tri-Hi club of Harding High school Monday night at the school building. Members of the board, Mrs. Edson Bush, Mrs. George Turner, Mrs. C. Z. Zachman, Mrs. Charles Isaly, Mrs. Homer Waddell, Mrs. Walter Guthrie and Mrs. Elmer J. Schoenlaub were entertained at the services.

Miss Velma Schneller, assistant pastor of Calvary Evangelical church, talked to the girls on the spiritual, mental and physical sides of life, represented in the triangle insignia of the organization.

Miss Helen Jacoby, councillor, led in the prayer services.

Members taken in were: Helen Cross, Hazel Foster, Hildegarde Wanner, Lucile Valentine, Twila Gilbert, Mabel Dallas, Dorotha Ball, Jeanette Cox, Dorothy Rice, Helen Grossglaus, Florence Sweeney, Alma Duerr, Enid Little, Berdine Rinnert, Frances Baker, Dorothy Brown, Betty Brown, Margaret Alexander, Margaret Turner, Mary Turner, Josephine Ling, Josephine Imbody, Margaret Valentine, Marie Cutarelli, Viola Oborn, Dorothy Wilson, Virginia Thomas and Lettie Mae Strine.

"Our Turn Now" Is Tune of Plump O. S. U. Co-eds; "Slenders" Hope It's A Fad

Style Creator from Big City Brings Bad News to Curveless Co-Eds That Well-Rounded Figure Is Fashionable in East

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, March 14—Rumors of the anticipated styles for spring wear are causing no little worry to numberless co-eds at the state's largest institution of higher learning, Ohio State University.

Much of the worry is being absorbed by the slender figured co-eds who accepted the report that the spring "physical" style this year was slated to be plump with an open attitude of "What do I care?" and an inner feeling of "What'll I do?"

Among those "What'll I do?" girls who can, believe they can solve the problem by dispensing with the formal methods of dieting and reducing which has marked the daily routine of their lives since the slender figures came into being as the "stuff" of the modern age a few years ago.

Luckless Thin Ones

Others who are slender by nature and by no effort of their own, are the luckless individuals who are worrying over the report and hoping that it is another of the unpopular fads, to last a short time, if even that long.

To the already plump personages on the Buckeye campus, the message was received with much gusto and welcome as the Armistice in 1918. Its "our turn now" with the more chubby students.

A style creator from New York gave out the sad news to the curveless co-eds while visiting the campus a few weeks ago. She told the forlorn "slenders" that in the East it is now fashionable to have a well rounded figure and that the style would likely reach Ohio, and incidently Ohio State university, in the very near future.

Here are a few student opinions of the anticipated style:

Miss Louise Callahan, sophomore (queen of the homecoming celebration and the Junior Prom): "There is a happy medium at which point a girl looks best, wears clothes best and feels best. It isn't the skinny girl who gets the farthest—[illegible] neat trim girl with the persona[illegible] that counts."

Miss Geneva D. Lyle, senior, [illegible] the spring styles provide for [illegible] figures, I presume the 'styles [illegible] fashion' on the campus will cha[illegible] their ideas."

Wants To Gain

Miss Lucy M. Sloan, [illegible] gives a girl 'sex appeal' to ha[illegible] well rounded figure and seeing [illegible] styles are to be that—well [illegible] State is to be benefited by the new style creations."

Miss Phyllis G. Devine, [illegible] (weight, 100 pounds): "I would [illegible] love to gain 10 pounds, but I [illegible] most girls are afraid to even [illegible] one pound."

Miss Gertrude Lippincott, [illegible] more: "The girls seem to change their ideas with styles, and I [illegible] have they will wish to become [illegible] little heavier with the new spring styles. (Miss Lippincott drinks a quart of milk every day to gain a little more poundage).

Be Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby is likely to wake you any night with that sharp cry which means just one thing—colic! Be ready. Keep a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria in the house. A few drops of this pure vegetable, pleasant tasting preparation comforts a colicky, fretful or feverish baby in a jiffy. In a few moments your anxiety is over and baby's sleeping soundly again. And you've only done what your doctor would advise. He'll tell you Fletcher's Castoria doesn't contain any harmful drug—that it's safe for the youngest infant and effective for children of all ages in cases of constipation, colic, gas, diarrhea and these upsets when you don't know just what is the matter. Avoid imitations. Genuine Castoria bears the Fletcher signature.

One Spoonful Would Fill A Market Basket!

HERE IS a secret for the benefit of one's inner system. There is as much good to a single spoon of plain pepsin syrup as in a whole basket of fresh vegetables!

You have heard how modern menus fail to assist the peristaltic action so important to health. Make this up with a little syrup pepsin, and watch appetite, assimilation, and elimination pick up! It ought to improve 100% in a week according to some doctors.

Don't give up rich foods, or go on a diet when this liquid vegetable corrective can put stomach, liver, and bowels in condition to handle anything that's eaten! Without the sign of distress, or a fear of constipation. You don't have to purge yourself to keep the digestive tract all clean and sweet. A ten-day test of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will prove the-Children are healthier and happier, and elderly people have a far easier time where this ideal combination of laxative herbs and pure pepsin is fully appreciated.

Dr. Caldwell first used this innocent means of keeping the bowels free from accumulated waste back in 1875. Today, you couldn't find a druggist without this famous prescription, all put up and directions enclosed. Try it, and you'll know why!—Adv.

Fannie Brice Featured

ON PROGRAM FRIDAY NIGHT

In Columbia Broadcast

BY MAC L. ROY

FANNIE BRICE, assisted by ... Brennan, will head the ... Vodvil program at 8 ... o'clock Friday night in a broadcast over ... associated with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Fannie Brice, the world's foremost comedienne, began her career at an early age when she won the first prize at an amateur theatre contest. This was followed by chorus and later soubrette work in a burlesque company. In 1910 Ziegfeld engaged her for the Follies and with the exception of two years she remained a feature of that revue until the ... season. For two years she starred in the Music Box Revue, after which she appeared in a Belasco production of "Fanny." She is at present appearing in the Vitaphone production of "My Man."

NEW BUILDING FOR COLUMBIA

A NEW home for the Columbia Broadcasting System, to be ready for use next fall, is being constructed at Madison av. and Fifty-second st. in New York City. The new building, a 24-story skyscraper, will bear the name, The Columbia Broadcasting System Building.

The broadcasting system has reserved the five top stories for its ... studios and executive offices. The key stations of the ... will be located there. Fifteen studios, ranging in size from small chambers for talks to ... large ... of holding over 200 entertainers in a single broadcast, have been built.

One of the unique features of the ... studios will be the lighting and ... equipment, which is ... preparatory for the time when television will be a regular broadcasting event, when the radio audience will be able to see as well as hear all that takes place within the studio walls. While scientific research has not as yet reached the point where the installation of the actual television apparatus is practical, Columbia System engineers, realizing what television will be in the near future, have provided lighting equipment, extra control rooms and ... for this work.

TWO SENATORS WILL BROADCAST

SENATOR WILLIAM H. McMASTER of South Dakota and Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida will be the speakers on the next "Half Hour with the Senate," to be broadcast over the WEAF network of the NBC system at 10:30 o'clock Friday night.

TIME CHANGED FOR PROGRAM

LANDON'S HAWAIIANS, Marion's only musical organization appearing as a regular feature over the radio each week, will broadcast from station WAIU at Columbus at 8:30 o'clock Friday night. The time of the broadcast is 45 minutes later than the regular schedule of the group.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.—Adv.

"ASTOUNDING—THAT IS WHAT I SAY OF NEW KONJOLA"

Former Sufferer, Happy with Renewed Health, Pays Grateful Tribute to Famous Herbal Compound

MR. A. A. CLIFT

"Astounding, that is what I say of this new and different medicine, Konjola," said Mr. A. A. Clift, 401 Third street N. W., Canton, Ohio. "For many years I suffered dreadfully from stomach trouble—food formed into a heavy sodden mass, fermenting gasses that caused shortness of breath. My vitality was low, I had no resistance, and the least physical exertion exhausted me. My nerves became all unstrung and sound sleep was out of the question. Catarrh set in, affecting my head and made me hard of hearing. I was discouraged and disheartened.

"Then I began hearing about this wonderful Konjola. I wondered if it could do any good for me at this advanced stage. I decided to give it a trial and it went right to work. Day by day I began to improve. My stomach started functioning better and the catarrhal condition was rapidly drying up. By the time I had completed the fifth bottle I felt like a different man. I now eat three meals a day, enjoy them and never suffer the slightest after effects. All traces of the catarrh have disappeared. I praise Konjola and want to say that this is the master medicine of them all."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels into more healthy action. The effect of this Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now Konjola is the most highly endorsed medicine that is known in this section.

Konjola is sold in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and by all the best druggists throughout this entire region.—Adv.

A Story of Big Business and the Wiles of Women

BY ARNOLD BENNETT

[illegible] and the baron con[illegible] all by a long chalk [illegible] is going to sue [illegible] of you. And then [illegible] proceedings instead [illegible] know what that'll [illegible] cause I'm Lallers now [illegible] me a couple of hun[illegible] besides a [illegible] to find about a [illegible] but I'm Lallers [illegible] went again and came [illegible] an envelope ad-dressed to Lallers, Hanover S[illegible], W. 1, London, and a check for [illegible] 113 4s 6d drawn in favor of Lallers. She displayed these papers to her spouse and put the [illegible] into the second and tossed [illegible] over to [illegible].

Here [illegible] said she [illegible] and tears [illegible] and you can stamp it—I have [illegible] French stamps anyway.

In silence Lord Furber obeyed the suggestion.

And here, said Maidie, putting her right arm across the table toward her spouse and [illegible] right hand in front of him.

What?

Kiss it.

Why?

This is the hand you squeezed into a perfect pulp this morning.

The most remarkable and improbable event in the entire history of the Vanguard and of Lallers then happened. The baron immediately kissed Maidie's hand. He did it clumsily, perhaps brutally, but he did it.

I've won, said Maidie.

Furber's Resolve

That night the yacht was being maneuvered into the great basin at Marseilles. And the port of Marseilles is a most interesting and thrilling locality. But the most interesting and thrilling phenomenon lay within the yacht itself and not outside it.

That phenomenon was the mind of Lord Furber. The baron, with his mind on board, wandered about alone. He could not stay at rest in one place. Nor could he carry on a connected conversation with any one. He had the transfer of the Laller option drawn up with all Mr. Sutherland's nice articularity in his pocket. He knew that he could exercise the option at any moment and from that moment could give orders at Lallers' establishment. Hence he knew also that if Maidie had not paid (but she had paid) Maidie at a word from him could be sued. Therefore he had won in the conjugal contest, and it was absurd of Maidie to assert that she had won. Nevertheless he was well aware, though he would not admit quite as much, that she had indeed won, for he had gained his end only by the main force of money, and Maidie had out-boned him.

They were all leaving him. Harriet Perkins was going. Luke Tunnicliff was going. (By what magic had that mere lad established such an ascendancy over the brilliant and wayward girl? The baron himself could never have established such an ascendancy.) Sutherland was going. So he and [illegible] had worsted him in generosity—and in calmness. Fate had for once been too strong for the Lord Septimus. Maidie was going.

And he had word from Brumption that Mrs. Brumption considered she was able to hobble with the aid of a stick, was going too, and of course the faithful dog Brumption with her. Pump[illegible] Brumption's employer would not show any distress. Let them all go—and good riddance!

The baron had one moral consolation [illegible] that for years he had maintained control [illegible]. This was something [illegible]. And it was something that he had treated two naughty men [illegible] ton and Luke with singular magnanimity. And he had won. Yes, he had won, and the [illegible] mistake [illegible] his [illegible]. He had [illegible]. He had said what he [illegible] said and gloriously [illegible]. Oh, should he say single [illegible].

He strolled to and fro endlessly. At length he went into his bedroom. He locked both doors and then his vaunted self-control broke down. He stormed and he cursed all by himself. He said [illegible] women were savages and that [illegible] savages of men. He [illegible] as the very [illegible] of the [illegible] and the originator of all mischief. He reviled [illegible] who was something less than a man. And he reviled Maidie [illegible] contradictorily because she had beaten him. [illegible] Last in a final paroxysm he cried in the silence of his soul: I am an ass.

He then, having smashed a mirror by means of a paperweight, came back to himself and felt easier and [illegible] but he would never be an ass any more.

Only he knew that he would break his oath over and over again, but he trusted that each time he would be less and less of an ass.

And he [illegible] a great [illegible] and blinded he said (still in the silence of his soul):

Millions are a mockery without a purpose in life. For years I have had no purpose. I will have a purpose. I henceforth have a purpose and it shall be my hobby. I will civilize myself and at this vast work of civilization I will toil night and day. And what is more, I will study Maidie as I would study a science. I will learn to play beautifully on her as I would learn to play on a fiddle. That woman—curse her (no, I won't curse her) that woman I will possess her as I would possess all knowledge. She is endless. But so am I.

Farewells

He heard a knocking at the door but ignored it. The knocking continued. He unlocked and opened the door. Brumption was standing in front of him.

'Well, what the h—ll d'ye want' he was about to say. But he said 'Well——' and stopped there.

Excuse me, my lord. Mrs. Brumption asked me to say that as Miss Perkins is leaving you she would be glad to stay if you feel that she could be of any use. She is not very happy with the captain because he told her she's only crew. But she'd be glad to stay.

Yes, I daresay she would, the baron was about to sneer.

But he said naught. He merely nodded an affirmative grunt.

Thank you, my lord. Brumption departed.

Saved that time!

The baron issued forth into the confused, excited world of the yacht. The Vanguard was both moored and anchored. Captain Slapser was calling orders from the bridge.

I'll never have you again after this season, said the baron privately. 'Because you are an ass, and a pompous ass.' At least I don't think I'll have ye * * *

The luggage was being piled near the stern on the poop. Two automobiles were attendant on the quay. Mr. Sutherland, who for several days had been deprived of his favorite pastime of organization, was now indulging it freely. He had joined, with the help of Mr. Tunnicliff, the wireless operator, engineered the entire business of disembarkation and he had done it perfectly, and he was blandly conscious of perfection.

There was a group at the head of the gangway, which like the rest of the yacht blazed with electric light in the darkness and dimmed the [illegible] lamps of the port. And far [illegible] the Cannebiere, the noisiest, the most riotous street in all Europe, flamed and raged and roared in the night with its trams, its sky signs, the glowing facades of theaters and restaurants, its surging populace.

The baron joined the crowd at the stern. Surely his guests were not moving off without bidding him farewell. No, they were not. Harriet tearfully said:

We were wondering how [illegible] you'd be. We are waiting for the luggage cart. It's just come.

Tunnicliff the wireless operator was in the group.

Goodby, successful vamp, the baron distinctly heard him say as he shook hands with Harriet. An odd remark.

One by one the guests and the former secretary took leave of the [illegible]. They all said charming things. As for the baron, he said chiefly:

Not at all! Not at all! Not at all!

Then the ceremonial was interrupted by the appearance on the gangway of Count Veruda, mysteriously humorous as ever. It was as if he was murmuring to himself:

I alone see the joke of the universe.

Last to bid goodby was Maidie. She approached the baron, raised his hand, lifted her cheek toward his and then suddenly turned round to Harriet and said:

I'm not going.

I have won, said the baron to himself.

What? Harriet demanded, thunderstruck.

I'm not going.

But then I shan't have any chaperon, Harriet exclaimed.

Mr. Sutherland can be your chaperon, said Maidie with unconscious cruelty. It was the hardest blow Septimus had ever suffered.

THE END

Ankles Swollen Twice their Size

THE STYLE presented is the new daytime ensemble frock, for it opens at front revealing a slip to contribute to its smartness and color combination. The open fronts are rolled in revers and have inverted plaits at each side of center. It is sketched in printed and plain silk crepe. Two tones of silk crepe, two surfaces of crepe satin or printed and plain sheer woolen is interesting idea.

THE PATTERN of Style No 2715 is extremely simple to use, as it is shown in picture lessons exactly how every part is made. Cuts in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. The pattern is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

THURSDAY. This morning was like a real clay morning. When I was looking up, the sky was grumbling and growling and rolling around. I'm not doing anything about it, and if I don't do anything all day I will be glad when there is grass so I can take the cows out to the pasture and go in swimming in the creek and catch snakes and go over to Mud Lake pond and go fishing, and have a good time. There is quite a lot of fun in the winter time sliding down hill and skating, and getting dry by a fire when a fella breaks through the ice, but winter is nothing like summer with swimming and swimming and berrying and everything.

We didn't go to see if Holgren's flag was flying today. As long as he is getting better what is the use. We went over to the stink factory but the mud was half way to our knees in the stink factory yard and there wasn't one dead animal to be made up into glue and fertilizer, and the man we saw outside said they were only running on half time and he said if they didn't learn to make something out of dead flivvers they might have to go out of business, because the supply of horses was shot all to pieces, so then we all went over to see Miss Parmer and when he had crowded into her kitchen and got warmed up she asked us where we had been and I said to the stink factory and she said 'Mercy! I thought so!' It is funny that a stink factory running on half time can make a full time stink.

We went back to our house and I made some paste out of flour and water and we swept a place on our barn floor and made a kite. Whitey went home and got a nickel for a ball of string and we tore up some old rags for a tail and because Whitey had got the string he had the first right to fly the kite. He unwound the string almost the whole way across the vacant lot and then he said ready and the Lost Bag of Tripe was highsting it and while he highsted it he stood on its tail, so that when Whitey started to run the pull of the tail and belly band broke the sticks in the middle, and Whitey came walking back winding up the string, and when he got near enough the Lost Bag of Tripe said, "I know just how you feel, Whitey," and Whitey said "No you don't," and the Lost Bag of Tripe said "How come I don't?" By that time Whitey was close to him and he said "If you knew how I feel you would be half way home and running," and he gave him an overhand punch to the nose and a backhanded slap in the mouth, and they had a pretty good fight. So the kite done some good after all. Whitey [illegible].

SIMPLE IDEA NETS SALESMAN BIG PROFIT

New York, N. Y.—As a salesman, Mr. T. Handelman, 16 East Seventh Street, found that he had been going along in a rut and that the rut pointed in the downward direction. Then, he says, he got the simple idea of making a slight change in his diet and his sales began to increase to the point that not only was the commission profitable but a lucrative promotion loomed ahead. Mr. Handelman explains his idea and its results below:

"My occupation of salesman is one that requires an alert, aggressive mind that can see and grasp the opportunity to consummate a sale. I was an habitually heavy user of caffein beverages.

"For the past year or two my sales had fallen slowly but steadily. Six months ago I began to analyze myself. I found that it was getting hard for me to go after my prospects because I was becoming nervous and impatient. I went to a doctor and he advised me to quit the use of caffein. I stopped using it, but there was nothing to fill the void and I relapsed.

Sends for Postum

"Then I had an idea. One day, I sent away for Postum and began drinking it. The trial period was almost over when it gradually dawned upon me that my impatience and nervousness had largely disappeared and that my powers of concentration and aggression had been strengthened. For proof there was my daily increasing record of sales. And where, formerly, I was hard put to it to hold my position, I have my eyes on a district managership that is coming nearer and nearer to me.

"Thinking it all over, to what else can I ascribe the results but to Postum?"

Here's to your success!

There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and success, as many a business man has learned to his sorrow. For caffein, the seemingly harmless beverage drug so many people take with their meals, is eternally at work, slyly, insidiously, tearing down its victims. Often, if the habit is continued, the effect makes itself felt in shaky nerves, in sleepless nights, in impaired digestion.

Make an about-face now—get back on the road to success! Eliminate caffein from your diet—drink Postum with your meals instead! Try this change for thirty days—then note the difference. Decide if you ever want to go back to caffein!

Postum contains no caffein, no drug of any kind. Postum is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—a drink that never affects sleep or digestion, that never gets on your nerves. You'll like Postum for its own sake, too! It has a rich, distinctive flavor that millions prefer.

Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today—start your 30-day test!

WHY DON'T YOU CHANGE TO RINSO? IT SAVES YOUR STRENGTH BY SOAKING OUT THE DIRT
I'M ALWAYS SO TIRED AFTER WASHDAY

NEXT WASHDAY
WELL, I TRIED RINSO TODAY. IT'S MARVELOUS SOAP. I'M NOT A BIT TIRED, AND MY WASH IS WHITER THAN EVER!

Wash clothes whiter this safe, economical way

TRY RINSO this washday! See why millions of women will use no other laundry soap.

Rinso is different. In its thick, creamy suds, dirt soaks out. No scrubbing, no boiling—just soak and rinse for the whitest wash ever! No wear on clothes or hands.

A compact, granulated soap—one cupful of Rinso gives more suds, does more washing than two cupfuls of lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Get the BIG household package. Use it in tub or washer, for dishes, pots and pans, walls, floors, tubs and all cleaning.

NEW ENGLAND PARTY TO MAKE LONG BOAT TRIP

BOSTON — Howell Sheppard of Winchester, well known outboard motor boat racing driver and participant in the Boston to New York [illegible] of the New England [illegible] Motor Boat Association last [illegible] together with a party of New England motor boat enthusiasts has completed plans for an early spring cruise from Port Clinton, O., to Boston, a distance of nearly 1,000 miles.

The itinerary provides for a trip through the Great Lakes and down the Hudson to Albany. The schedule is so arranged that the party will arrive at the port before the start of the proposed second annual Albany-New York City outboard marathon down the Hudson River and it is Mr. Sheppard's plan to follow the racers including many New England racing drivers to the Empire City. From New York the cruisers will journey along Long Island Sound through Cape Cod Canal and across Massachusetts Bay, arriving in Boston about the middle of April.

Ritzy Rosalie

IT was an important meeting and the heated arguments over the date of the club dance were carried right out of Rosalie's front door. And four handbags and an umbrella were left behind. Rosalie can see that the umbrella is part of a set [illegible] its case matches one of the purses. Under one arm she is carrying to safety an envelope bag with a watch in its strap. She is swinging on one finger a double compartment affair—one side is a complete vanity and the other side for money—each side opening independently of the other. Under her other arm she holds a bag with a petticoat edge.

Buckley Sentenced to 2 Years, 6 Months in Federal Prison

FORMER TREASURER ALSO FINED $1,000

Stay of Execution Granted Pending Disposition of Higher Court Appeal

SPERBER GETS 4 MONTHS

Sentences Allowed To Run Concurrently; Saves Him Five Years

COLUMBUS, March 14—Former State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley was sentenced to serve two years, six months and one day in the Atlanta penitentiary and pay a fine of $1,000 in federal court here late yesterday afternoon.

With an appeal pending in the U. S. circuit court of appeals at [illegible] Buckley [illegible] of federal bail.

Joseph Sperber, Cincinnati, [illegible] was sentenced to [illegible] Hamilton county jail and [illegible] $500.

Imposition of sentence was made by Federal Judge Benson W. Hough who after meting out the [illegible] granted Buckley a stay of [illegible] of sentence pending the higher court appeal.

Schrimper Not Sentenced

This marks the [illegible] climax of the famous Cincinnati beer brewery [illegible] case which resulted in the former state treasurer's conviction on conspiracy and [illegible] charges.

Buckley faced a maximum prison term of 28 years and a fine of $[illegible] so it can be seen that Buckley drew a comparatively lenient sentence.

John H. Schrimper, Cincinnati attorney and former state legislator who pleaded guilty to the same charges on which the ex-state official was found guilty by [illegible] of 2 [illegible] was not sentenced [illegible] because of the illness of [illegible] Judge Hough ordered [illegible] be the court [illegible]

Must Serve Out Time

Sperber [illegible] also that [illegible] out his fine in the Montgomery county jail [illegible] of paying it.

Buckley could have [illegible] nearly eight years in the federal institution at [illegible] had not allowed the sentence on the four different counts to run concurrently. A two-year, six months and one day sentence was given the convicted man on the first count, a like sentence on the second count and no prison term on the third to eighth counts inclusive. On the ninth count he was sentenced to 18 months and on the tenth count to one year and one day. As the sentences were allowed to run concurrently the convicted man will be [illegible] will only have to serve two years, six months and a day behind the penitentiary walls.

The climax of the case will be reached when the appeal filed by Buckley is ruled upon. The appeal in reality is a petition in error asking the reversal of the lower court decision. If the petition is disallowed Buckley will begin serving his sentence.

Wife with Him

Sperber started serving his prison sentence today. He paid his fine immediately after being sentenced yesterday after[illegible] to pay his fine [illegible] to the county [illegible] the jail [illegible] the grounds of [illegible]

A dogged expression haunted Buckley's face as he stood before the court for sentence yesterday. His wife, Mrs. [illegible] Buckley, was with [illegible] and [illegible] the sentence [illegible]

Goes to 'Big House'

The [illegible] of Bert Buckley's, Schrimper and Sperber's indictment by the federal grand jury of De[illegible] on charges of conspiracy and attempted bribery. Schrimper and Sperber pleaded guilty. Buckley went to trial and was convicted of [illegible] counts in the indictment. During the trial it was brought out that [illegible] attempted to arrange with [illegible] federal prohibition enforcement agent of Ohio and Indiana a [illegible] system whereby real beer could be produced in the Cincinnati breweries. According to the testimony Buckley declared he expected to get $2 [illegible] every half keg of beer that went out of the Queen City breweries and that he expected a big [illegible] out of the deal. By a queer trick of fate Buckley is going to one of the U. S. government's biggest houses, the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

ORCHESTRA PLAYS TO CROWD OF 900

Hungarian Musicians Appear Here as Feature of High School Course

As the final number of its lecture and entertainment course the senior class of Harding High school last night at the Star Auditorium presented the Royal Hungarian orchestra playing under the direction of Madame Balassa. There were approximately 900 persons in the audience.

Although this was the last of the numbers scheduled on the course as originally planned it was announced that a special additional entertainment will be presented on April 1[illegible] when the Ohio Wesleyan Singers from Delaware will be here. This entertainment will be free to all patrons of the course holding season tickets.

The program last night opened with an ensemble made up of first and second violin, cello and piano. Madame Belassa then gave a group of numbers played on the cymbalon, a Hungarian instrument that has been popular in Hungary for nearly 100 years. This is constructed much on the same principle as the piano but is played with two cotton tipped hammers.

Madame Mash[illegible] gave several vocal numbers which were well received. The ensemble played with selections as William Tell Overture and the Torch Dance. [illegible] Fillmore Summer[illegible] displayed expert technique in the presentation of Gypsy Airs by Sarasate, playing harmonics [illegible]

The entire program was well received.

pacing the floor He was a man six feet tall and broad of shoulder and chest yet with a gait that was [illegible]. There was the [illegible] of gray in his black hair which waved upward [illegible] that suggested the impetuosity of the man [illegible] were dark regular [illegible]re, but now and then a hint of mystery of [illegible] in the slow flick[er of his c]old gray eyes

[illegible] here again he mum[bled] a glance at his watch

The Woman of It

[illegible] of the window look[ing] [illegible] the East river its [illegible] spangled with the [illegible] a grotesque variety of [illegible] was a curious location and especially for a [illegible] and pretentious as [illegible] Winthrop Gaston who had bought the land built the house had [illegible] curious things The ball was only one sample of his variegated [illegible] erratic imagination [illegible] of queer impulses [illegible] deeds And some of [illegible] and deeds seemed [illegible] after him It was some[what] little difficult to realize [illegible] the seven years that [Winthr]op was dead

[illegible] ent chuckle escaped [illegible] As always on his [illegible] the atmosphere of the [illegible] was exerting a demoraliz[ing] on his nerves The air [illegible] with a strange [illegible] which the [illegible] grasp but which [illegible] tortured pictures in his [illegible] Would it be pos[sible] [illegible] Julia Martenet [illegible] father in law's hou[se] [illegible] less depressing [illegible] This place with its [illegible] and dreary as [illegible] not a fit habitat [illegible] and vivacious widow [illegible] charming [illegible] the bargain It was [illegible] to Mallingham why [illegible] not escaped soon after [illegible] of her husband old [illegible] only son I could [illegible] was detained [illegible] of sentiment Julia [illegible] the sentimental kind [illegible] recalled how buoy[antly she] had rallied from the [illegible] her husband's death [illegible] he was certain Max[well] Martenet was only a pale [illegible] recurred but rarely [illegible] thoughts

[illegible] matter Maxwell had [illegible] type of man doomed to [illegible] His personality [illegible] his eccentric and [illegible] father had been [illegible] the kind that [illegible] itself [illegible] no appeal to the [illegible] Whereas Winthrop Martenet had departed [illegible] with all the clamor and [illegible] exploding [illegible] of his son [illegible] had been like the fad[ing] [illegible] film The father [illegible] his personality on [illegible] and everything within [illegible] the son had been the [illegible] type of man whom one can [illegible] a thousand times and instantly forget Small wonder [illegible] Julia Martenet had [illegible] her widowhood so lightly

Her Late Husband

Mallingham could not reflect [illegible] the fates of the two men [illegible] a sense of philosophic [illegible] years ago the elder Martenet had had a tranquil [illegible] dramatic death in his bed [illegible] had been like the [illegible] of an epic The death of [his] son Maxwell three years [illegible] had been surrounded by [illegible] strange circumstances which in the case of any other man would have created a sensation There was even room for speculation as to where and how he had died There had been a few mysterious hints but they had been dropped quickly

It had simply been impossible to conceive of Maxwell Martenet coming to a dramatic end The dull and unheroic character of his life had silenced in advance any suspicion which might have arisen after his death He had not been of the stuff that dramatists are made of

Mallingham had often wondered about these things He had wondered for instance whether Julia Martenet knew more about her husband's fate than she had divulged He had [illegible] reason for believing that [illegible] but the thought came to him now and then He had also resolved to put the question to her bluntly some day

[Julia h]ad been Maxwell's second wife His first wife had died [illegible] years ago a year or two [illegible] birth of a son who was [illegible] and who it was said [illegible] many of his grand[illegible] [illegible] and none

[illegible] arriage had been [illegible] It would prob[ably] [illegible] something of a [illegible] for the fact that [illegible] to become excited [illegible] that Maxwell [illegible] He had been well [illegible] at the time [illegible] not apparent that he [illegible] common with his [illegible] who through the [illegible] Perhaps Maxwell [illegible] one of [illegible] and tar[illegible] so disas[trous] [illegible] could be readily [illegible] was not so [illegible] understand why the [vivaci]ous Julia had [illegible] a man more [illegible] It could [illegible] on her part, [illegible] Mallingham had been [illegible] beginning It [illegible] that Julia, looking at her wooer through a fancy weaving eyes of youth had imagined Maxwell possessed of some of the romantic glamour that had attached to his father old Winthrop If so she must have been quickly disillusioned

A Dangerous Woman

Mallingham smiled and it was the smile of a man who views life through the eyes of experience and cynicism A woman still young and bereft of her illusions was an ever [illegible] phenomenon even in this sophisticated age Such a [illegible] likely to prove dangerous but the dangerous quality was an added attraction in Mallingham's eyes His smile lingered mellowing ever so slightly the cold grayness of his eyes as he went from thought to thought Yes there were several matters of which he would have to speak to Julia Among other things he would have to scold her for keeping him waiting so long

Gradually he grew impatient He was resentful of the sombering effect which the room exercised upon his mood Why did the old butler always insist upon ushering visitors into the library The drawing room was less depressing although the lingering spell of Winthrop Gaston Martenet was to be felt even there The butler of course was an automaton enslaved by regulations It had always been old Winthrop's custom to receive callers in the library and Huggles could not shake off the habit He had earned a rest, Julia ought to dismiss him

As if to turn his thoughts into more pleasant channels he viewed himself in an old Venetian mirror Without being vain a man of 45 could indulge a justifiable sense of satisfaction in looking a man of 40 Not a wrinkle not a superfluous ounce of flesh anywhere He wore his perfectly tailored evening clothes with an air all his own He was trim and straight his face was firmly molded there was an intensely vital gloss to his crisp black hair Fine! Mallingham could smile at the thought of how he was cheating the ravenous year

Enter Julia

Yet as he turned away the smile became a grimace There was the globe again with its infernal and everlasting motion derived from a power secreted in a dead man's brain The thing was almost ghostly It was getting on his nerves He wished Julia would order it removed If she would not Mallingham would smash it to bits one day Perhaps then the spell that hung like a shadow over the room would be shattered The spell of old Winthrop peeping behind the curtain of nature's mysteries!

Absorbed in his contemplation of the globe he did not notice that another person had entered the room He started as a voice full throated and musical spoke

Hello crystal gazer!

Julia was standing beside him Julia Martenet's beauty had converted many an otherwise sensible man into a fool Mallingham had long admired her enjoyed her sparkling vivacity refreshed himself with the tonic qualities of her intensely feminine moods found relaxation in her bright and inconsequential talk—but he had kept his head As for his heart there were times when Julia was certain that he had none The apparent absence of that organ made him a man of mystery in her eyes and mysteries were tantalizing and attractive things

'Worth Waiting For

As she stood beside him now her head with its bobbed pale-yellow curls reached barely to his shoulder Her features were very small yet there was something robustly vital in them In contrast with the gauzy and ethereal blue of her eyes her mouth seemed a trifle too vivid and too pronounced and it often struck Mallingham as amusing that he alone of all men should have noticed this one defect Instead of acting as a blemish however it only rendered her face all the more piquant

Mallingham took out his watch 'You have kept me waiting exactly 45 minutes

'Don't scold Ernest I returned only half an hour ago Huggles told me you were here but I remembered I was going out with you this evening so I ran up and dressed Imagine a woman dressing in 30 minutes! You ought to feel flattered

Mallingham studied her critically A dress of palest pink and light as the foam of the sea with only a slight splash of rose at the waist set off superbly the gleaming whiteness of her arms and shoulders His frown melted yet his admiration was impersonal and detached [illegible] the same way he might have inspected an exquisitely chiseled statue As she stood beside him Julia was a vision of delicate loveliness a subtle commingling of the charms of [illegible] youth and the florescent maturity of [illegible]

Oh I forgot [illegible] she said carelessly You were worth [illegible]

She smiled in a pleased way There was something about Mallingham which made his curt and infrequent compliments far more satisfying than the long and studied speeches of other men

"I wish the globe" he went on with a scowl at the revolving ball "you would tell Huggles to pitch this abomination out of the window"

What—that? Oh I couldn't. It would be a—sort of sacrilege."

'Sacrilege' Mallingham laughed shortly 'Do you hold the memory of your late father-in-law so sacred that you can't get rid of this piece of junk?"

"No—you know it isn't that. I just feel it belongs here. That's a foolish reason, but—Well, it's hard to explain She glanced at the jeweled hexagon of platinum on her wrist We'll have to start at once or we shall be late

Sit down said Mallingham I've changed my mind We are not going out this evening There are several things on my mind—things I have wanted to take up with you for a long time—and we are going to discuss them tonight"

A Serious Discussion

A little frown gathered over her eyes but evidently her disappointment was mitigated by curiosity She composed herself languidly on the sofa forming a vivid touch against the drab upholstery

What a bear you are Ernest! And you sound so dreadfully serious Has anything happened

Mallingham crossed the floor twice before he replied Yes but we'll come to that later It has just occurred to me that it is about time I understood certain things that have been puzzling me Julia whatever made you marry Maxwell Martenet?

What a question! How should I know? I was very young I suppose I acted on impulse People do all [illegible] of things on impulse

Was that all

Julia lowered her eyes in thought Whenever she looked down her eyelids seemed very large like elongated petals drooping over the corona of a flower

Mean to tell me asked Mallingham that it was sheer impulse which made you marry a middle aged widower with a grown son? Maxwell had no attractions no personal charm He was not wealthy as wealth is measured in these days He had no social or professional standing Viewed in even the most charitable light he was the nearest approach to a nobody

Yet you say you married him on an impulse Expect me to believe that

People sometimes commit suicide and murder on impulse don't they Why shouldn't they marry on impulse

Mallingham gave her a searching look A half smile inquisitive and a little challenging parted her lips as she snuggled against the cushions

I Want the Truth!

Well maybe so he admitted That little word impulse covers a multitude of follies Well let it go at that There is another thing I have wanted to ask you about Maxwell died four years ago—at least it is the supposition that he died then What do you know about his death

Nothing except what I have already told

Which was nothing I want the truth Julia

A little shudder shook the slight figure on the sofa She lifted up her eyes widening I don't understand you Why do you look at me that way Why do you speak to me in this tone? I know no more than anybody else does Maxwell left home one morning and never came back What else is there to know

What else echoed Mallingham jeeringly 'If any other man had disappeared under similar circumstances there would have been all sorts of ugly suspicions But people could never imagine anything dramatic happening to your husband When he disappeared it was merely supposed that he had wandered away and died Does that supposition satisfy you?

Well why shouldn't it? Julia resumed her languorous position resting her blond head on her shapely elbow She seemed her own cool self possessed self again

What's happened Ernest? You never talked to me about these things before

All the more reason why we should discuss them now Will you answer my question

She tossed her head defiantly You have no right to ask it

Right He laughed No perhaps not—but I am asking it just the same and you are going to answer me

'You Killed Him"'

He stepped in front of her and stood smiling down at her as one might smile at a willful child Gradually her face changed There was a look of resentment and mutiny but a trace of dread as well

'But I can't tell you anything Ernest All I know is what I have already told Maxwell had no enemies Nobody had a reason for—for harming him He was happy and contented I am sure he did not mean to disappear Maybe he was taken ill—his heart was rather weak you know—or maybe he met with an accident Such things happen"

'Yes I know—but it is rather curious his body was never found Of course one might have come to his death under circumstances that eradicated every trace of him That's conceivable but hardly probable I wonder—

He broke off his cold gray eyes regarding her more searchingly Julia look at me

She lifted her eyes with what seemed a fierce exertion of will power A faint challenging mocking smile was on her lips but it faded away in a tremor

As if she had seen something in his face that frightened her, her eyes fell again

Mallingham laughed sarcastically 'Just as I thought. You killed him"

"No' The short syllable burst from her lips in a little scream. She twisted her hands hysterically "No—no! I didn't —I never— You have no right to talk to me like this."

A Straight Story

Mallingham stood smiling down at her—a smile of amusement with no pity in it. "If you didn't kill him, what are you so excited about? There now—compose yourself We [illegible] any hysterics. You know I have no interest in what happened to your husband I am merely concerned on your account Your denials aren't very convincing Your acting is far from perfect What you need is a few rehearsals

Rehearsals'!

Mallingham pulled up a chair and sat down beside her Yes somebody else may ask you the very same questions I am asking [illegible] tonight [illegible]

She gave him a long trembling look [illegible] tell me What [illegible] and white for [illegible]

Hannan [illegible] nounced

She lay rigidly still Oh Hannan she said dully

Yes Hannan Martenet your stepson I happened to drop in at the Illington this evening and learned by chance that he is registered there [illegible] surprised to discover [illegible] youthful and charming stepmother he [illegible]

Julia looked a little dazed Her shimmering gown lay like a spray of ocean froth over her slender figure

Hannan in town she whispered And stepping [illegible]

Mallingham regarded her steadily

That was a little too emphatic my dear A righteous person doesn't find it necessary to utter words of one short syllable with such vehemence So you have no idea where Maxwell went that day Do you want me to tell you?

You? What do you know about it?'

A great deal perhaps! Isn't there a place somewhere in New Hampshire in a valley in the White Mountain ranges where Winthrop Gaston Martenet built a summer home a number of years before his death? Yes I thought so It's called Valhalla Notch or some such heathenish name I believe Quite a pleasant place I understand [illegible] where a bit difficult of access Well that's where your husband went the day he disappeared

A moan sprang from Julia's lips Half rising from the sofa she stared at him out of eyes that seemed suddenly swollen with dread

H-how—how do you know that I didn't Mallingham blew a puff of smoke ceilingward It was only a guess but you have confirmed it

Her face [illegible] and wan [illegible] about the [illegible] A [illegible] pallor and a grim contraction of the lips had utterly marred Julia's love[illegible] [illegible] Darkly trembling with

'There are several things I have wanted to take up with you for a long time said Mallingham 'and we are going to discuss them tonight '

lington I wonder why he didn't come here [illegible]

Quite true but perhaps he takes after his grandfather rather than his father If so he will naturally do the exact opposite of what is expected You have never seen him have you

[illegible] once but I had only a glimpse of him And that was years ago long before I married Maxwell I have no recollection of him at all

A Potential Villainess

That's natural I understand he has been a rover ever since he left college in the middle of his second year Too much wanderlust I imagine and that's why I suspect there is more of old Winthrop in him than of Maxwell Well we shall soon see Probably life has tamed him a bit He must be—let me see—about 27 now—a year older than his fascinating stepmother

Julia's fair head was resting among the pillows again Mallingham's easy tone appeared to have quieted her

I wonder what has brought him back to America she murmured

Hard to tell Perhaps he needs the money Or maybe he is just curious about things At any rate since he is here you will probably see more or less of him Naturally he will ask all sorts of questions

I understand that at the time of Maxwell's death he was hobnobbing with cannibals somewhere in the South Seas The cablegram didn't reach him till months later He will want to know a little about everything of course That's why I advise you to be prepared

"You speak as if I had some dreadful secret on my conscience."

Every woman is a potential villainess '

Julia could smile again 'Flattery and calumny in one breath! What shall I tell Hannan?"

Mallingham considered "If you dare, tell him the truth If not, tell him a convincing lie—but be sure it is convincing"

A shadow that might have been a mask for thought passed over Julia's exquisite face Her poise was deserting her again There was both fear and appeal in the look she levelled at the man sitting beside her

Mallingham, noting her vacillation, permitted himself a mephistophelian smile.

"Among other things," he suggested, "Hannan may ask you where Maxwell went the day he disappeared. Do you know?"

'No!"

her breath coming in little gasps she [illegible] the movements of his lithe trim figure

Presently he stopped in front of the revolving sphere There he stood rocking slowly on his heels silent fascinated

Well he [illegible] at length [illegible] his eyes from the [illegible] don't you think [illegible] tell admit [illegible] you sent your husband to his death

A low groan made him turn Julia had risen She was swaying, her lovely arms clutching for support It was as if a vandal's hand had touched her beauty ravaging it

Unhurriedly Mallingham went to her side and steadied her Soon the faintness passed With a deep sigh she sank back on the sofa

I—I can't stand it any longer she moaned brokenly I want to tell you—everything

TWO

AT 11 o'clock the following day Hannan Martenet stood at the corner of Broadway and 42d st and munched an apple His healthily tanned face looked as if the suns of many climes had shown on it, but none for very long He wore a blue serge suit and straw hat adorned with a black and red ribbon, and it was evident that both were recent acquisitions So too was probably the cane with its handle of silver representing a yawning dog's head on which he leaned experimentally His mild blue eyes roving with frank curiosity up and down the street, suggested that he was an unsophisticated young man who had much to learn

His education was just about to begin

A well-dressed gentleman with a mellow smile detached himself from the stream of pedestrians and approached Hannan Martenet.

'Grand morning,' he remarked with enthusiasm

Hannan agreed that it was.

'Stranger in town, aren't you?'

'Well, yes, in a way I haven't been here since I was a kid The old town has changed"

'I'll say it has!' declared the affable gentleman, and he proceeded to expatiate on the changes

His voice grew confidential, his smile blander And finally: "I know it's nervy to ask a favor of a stranger, but—"

"Always glad to oblige," Hannan assured him, turning his unsophisticated smile on the affable gentleman—a smile that seemed to embrace all Manhattan Island.

"Well, it's like this. [illegible] in the middle of the [illegible]

maker His name is R[illegible]ben Goff Now I've got a sure tip [illegible] Lucky Susan in the ninth at M[illegible]t Royal I don't want to let everybody in on it [illegible] the know—see? It would kill the chances of a cleanup Now that fat guy in there knows me He'd get wise in a minute if he knew I was laying Lucky Susan — see? Now if you'll take this two [illegible]—

He started to peel a [illegible] from a roll of generous [illegible] but just then he caught a [illegible] gleam in the unsophisticated eyes of his companion

Keep your money Hannan advised I know the rest of that trick Came across it first [illegible]

The affable gentleman [illegible]

Well [illegible]

He walked [illegible] away

The old [illegible] said Hannan to himself [illegible] changed much after all I'm beginning to feel at home

[illegible] with a sense of well-being inspected the silver knob on his cane and [illegible] of the [illegible] display in a haberdasher's window across the street [illegible] He entered and selected a gray [illegible] with blue dots [illegible] exchanged [illegible] pleasantries with the salesman [illegible] walked out again On [illegible] himself on the sidewalk His gently beaming eyes seemed to say that life was a gorgeous and hilarious affair

Presently his roving eyes picked out a slim figure in a navy blue suit and a black hat adorned with a shy touch of red He came forward his mild blue eyes twinkling as they inspected the face under the hat

Gorgeous morning said Hannan pleasantly

She turned with a slow freezing glance that measured him from the feet up Hannan sauntered still closer and leaned airily on his cane

Maybe you didn't hear me he suggested I remarked that it was a gorgeous morning

'Yeah I heard you Mr Sheik Her lips curled contemptuously You can save your breath I know the rest by heart You're [illegible] tell me Bright Eyes and tell me I look like somebody you used to know back in Kalamazoo Then you're going to make a bright crack about being lonely and on the lookout for a nice little pal It's a wonder you fresh guys wouldn't try a new line of stuff once in a while Now take a tip and beat it before I call a cop

The biting tirade utterly failed to wither Hannan's good humor He took out pencil and paper and wrote something

Maybe this will make the job easier for you ' he suggested

She gave him a blank look 'Say, what's the grand idea?'

'Read what I've written, and you will see"

She took the paper, glanced at it, started to read and a puzzled expression mingled with the scorn in her face Again she looked up at him

'That ' Hannan explained, tapping the paper with his finger, 'is a list of the places where I'm going today It will save you the trouble of always keeping me in sight."

Her eyes widened. There was a look of chagrin in them

'Oh darn it! Then you know?"

"I know you have been on my trail all morning, ever since I stepped out of the Illington What I can't understand is why anybody should take the trouble to have me shadowed I don't mind though—not a bit."

"Well, wouldn't that jar you!" A look of disgust came into her face. It was rather a nice face, Hannan observed. "And me patting myself on the back thinking I'd struck a soft snap. When did you tumble?"

"Oh, it didn't take me long. You see, I've been shadowed so often in different parts of the world that a [illegible] over me when [illegible] is trailing me."

perplexity came and it remained with him throughout luncheon

The question remained unanswered when a little later he ducked into a subway entrance and rode [illegible] After a while he emerged and turned his way toward a [illegible] building On the ground floor was the main office of the United Bankers Trust co. lavish in its display of marble and gold leaf Hannan waiting while his card was brought to one of the executives felt a little awed in the presence of so much grandeur

This way if you please sir

Hannan followed his guide up a flight of stairs and into a plainly furnished office At an immense desk sat a tall bespectacled [illegible] man chewing a wooden cigar He gave Hannan a long hard keen look [illegible] extended his hand [illegible] glad to see you young man mighty glad [illegible] got a grip on that fist? Your grandfather was the same way I used to yell and squirm every time he shook my hand

You look a great deal like him too Sit down and let me see your papers Just a formality of course

Hannan looked about him while Mr Curry inspected his credentials

Quite satisfactory declared Mr Curry returning the papers Cigar? [illegible] smoke [illegible] the next best thing You wouldn't believe it but I actually get a kick out of this wooden thing Imagination All a state of mind anyway Well I'm certainly glad to see you Hannan Long time since you left America You have your grandfather's eyes and nose and mouth and I imagine you have a great deal of his disposition [illegible] You don't bear much resemblance to your father Hannan No not much

So I was told when I was a kid

Let me see you are about twenty [illegible]

Twenty seven

Hm And you look as carefree and irresponsible as a youth of 20 Well it's good to be like that Mr Curry sighed a little perhaps in remembrance of a different kind of youth Your grandfather was that way too He and I were very close friends Yet there was a side of him particularly toward the last which I never understood There were many things he never told me about As you know he appointed this bank to act as the executor of his estate An individual executor would not have served his purposes as well Do you know anything about the contents of the will

Hannan shook his head slowly

Of course you don't You have been away for so many years I have made repeated attempts to reach you but by the time I succeeded in tracing you to one locality you were always somewhere else I shan't try to explain the details of the will now except to say that your grandfather left you well provided for Most of your share is in the form of very high class securities As for the town house, it was left to Maxwell Martenet your father and upon his death it became the property of the widow Then there is another house as you may know one located at a place named Valhalla Notch in the New Hampshire hills

I was never there said Hannan but I have heard about it

Mr Curry leaned back in his chair and gazed out the window

It's a curious place I understand and all the curious provisions in your grandfather's will are related to it During the latter part of his life—the part that I know very little about—your grandfather spent a great deal of his time at Valhalla Notch As you know he had a strong scientific bent and among other things he was deeply interested in the science of hydraulics He fitted up a laboratory in the house at Valhalla Notch and conducted various experiments there

The results of those experiments I don't know but they must have been extraordinary Your grandfather was very secretive about them He did not even take your father into his confidence until after his death

After his death?' Hannan exclaimed his sun browned face aglow with interest

For a few moments Mr Curry chewed his wooden cigar in silence

He left a letter to your father with the injunction that he was to destroy it after reading it and that under no circumstances was he to divulge its contents to anybody It is my impression although I can't speak with certainty that this letter told something of your grandfather's experiments He left a similar letter for you I shall hand it over to you directly"

Hannan's eyes widened

THREE

"MY grandfather seems to have been a curious sort"

'He was, indeed You will know more about it later As for the property at Valhalla Notch, it is to be held in trust by this bank, taxes and other expenditures to be paid from a trust fund The heirs are privileged to use the house, but there are certain restrictions which, I think, you will find explained in the letter I shall hand you"

He rang Hannan sat silent, a soft glow in his eyes A dim picture of his grandfather—tall, silent, mysterious and solitary—rose in his imagination.

"The Martenet papers, please," Mr. Curry told the young clerk who entered.

Hannan felt an odd thrill. Soon he was to learn his grandfather's secret The clerk returned and placed a bulging portfolio on the desk. Mr. Curry fumbled the contents, then drew out a sealed blue envelope. With an unconsciously dramatic gesture he handed it to Hannan.

"I wish you wouldn't read it here," he said. "I'm a curious old man, and I would be tempted to ask questions. Take it to your hotel, read it in your room, then burn it"

With an awed glance at the envelope Hannan put it in his pocket.

Mr. Curry shifted his cigar to the left side of his mouth. "I don't need to tell you, Hannan, that your grandfather was a man who had great faith in the honor of the Martenets, both as a family and as individuals He had faith that his heirs and descendants would obey his wishes in every respect I am satisfied that they will prove worthy of that faith '

Mr Curry took the wooden cigar from his teeth

Fond of your father weren't you, Hannan?

It's a curious thing Mr Curry, I seem to remember more of my grandfather than I do of my father I was fond of dad and I believe he was fond of me But we didn't always understand each other I'm afraid I wasn't a very good son Mr Curry

Mr Curry fixed him with a kindly gaze

I don't think you need have any scruples on that point One of the last things he said to me was that he wished he had been a better father to you Maybe each of you in his place was better than he knew

I never got any clear details of his death

And I have none to give You see he just went away and didn't come back My own opinion is that he left town to attend to some private matter and met with an accident—perhaps drowning I knew your father well and I am certain of one thing He did not disappear deliberately If he were alive he would have come back

Hannan's next question came hesitantly as if he uttered it only to rid his mind of a disagreeable thought

You don't think he met with any sort of foul play?

Mr Curry's answer was not as emphatic as might have been expected

'The police who investigated the matter didn't think so However, I am still making inquiries in a very quiet way in certain directions You see though there is no doubt in my mind there is no legal proof of death Three years from now—seven years from his death—the courts may declare him legally dead unless an assumption to the contrary should arise In the meantime But the likelihood of such an assumption arising is very slight—very slight

Hannan scanned his face wondering if he had told all that was on his mind

Whenever you are in need of funds Mr Curry began

'Thanks and Hannan brightened a little but I don't need anything at present The pearl lagoon turned out a success

He went out Mr Curry sighed looked moodily into space and picked up his wooden cigar

Hannan walked out into sunshine that seemed all the brighter by contrast with the solemnity that had entered his mood during his talk with Mr Curry He stepped to the edge of the sidewalk, looked up at the minarets of lower Manhattan hummed a little tune beneath his breath and half regretted that the girl in the navy blue suit was no longer watching him in the offing Yet who could tell? In this swirling, jostling speed-mad procession the individual was lost in the multitude In this surging mob there could easily be a pair of eyes subjecting him to a furtive espionage At any rate, the idea was intriguing

He permitted himself to be caught up and carried along by the torrent of pedestrians He walked with a loose easy stride as if his joints were on hinges and his muscles were very soft His thoughts as he swung along were both bewildering and exhilarating He had been in the metropolis only 24 hours, and already the wheels that hummed a rhythm of excitement and mystery In his pocket was a letter which made him the sole custodian of a secret handed down by his grandfather Somebody was taking enough interest in him to have his movements watched and he was at a loss to understand why The only thing that made him a figure of importance as far as Hannan could see was the letter in his pocket and the affairs connected with it Perhaps the explanation was to be found inside the envelope

He slapped his pocket to make sure it was still there The more he thought of it the stronger grew his curiosity He was tempted to read it at once but the crowded street seemed scarcely a fit place in which to peruse a confidential communication and as yet he was in no mood to go back to the hotel

Presently he turned into a narrow and very crooked street flanked by buildings that looked centuries old It was less crowded here; as he walked on the jangling noises of the traffic grew remote A drab four story building on a corner caught his eye The establishment on the ground floor was evidently a restaurant, It had a rather quaint entrance, and the green shades in the windows gave it a cozy and inviting air. He decided to go in and read his grandfather's letter over a cup of coffee and a sandwich.

A stocky, lynx eyed individual standing at the door gave him a sharp glance. The interior was a long, dim room with small tables arranged in rows and atrocious lithographs on the walls. A few people were partaking of refreshments, and they were served by a hunchback with a soiled apron who moved so quietly that Hannan knew he must be wearing rubber soles. For that matter, the entire place was so quiet that the buzzing of a fly caught on an adhesive strip hanging from the ceiling sounded curiously loud.

Hannan selected a table at one of the windows where the light was good enough to permit him to read. The hunchback, after inspecting him from a discreet distance, came forward and took his order, shrugging his misshapen shoulders as he turned away Hannan reached into his pocket for the letter, but his hand came out empty. The letter was still there, but he had suddenly conceived an aversion to reading it in this place. The atmosphere somehow did not seem just right, and his reluctance grew when two sinewy individuals entered and sat down at the next table.

After a considerable wait his order arrived. The coffee was [illegible] the sandwich stale and tough, and a sip and a bite were enough. [illegible]

WARD LEADS SCORERS OF CHURCH LOOP

COUNTS 92 POINTS FOR ENTIRE SEASON; OSTERHOLT SECOND

Defense of Teams Tighten and Scoring Drops in Last Half

BY BOB ELLIOTT

CLIFF WARD, midget Central Christian forward, took scoring honors for the second round of the senior Sunday school cage league with his total of 18 field goals and 14 charity tosses. This total of 50 points together with the 42 which he caged in the first round gave him a total of 92 points which was high for the entire schedule of 10 games. Ward played a fast game all year, and was the outstanding offensive star of his team and of the loop.

Charlie Osterholt, Trinity Baptist forward, was the only other player to better the 40 point mark for the second round of play. He scored 40 points on 20 field goals and then fell down on his share of free throws, making only four. This total of 44 combined with the 37 points he had the first half gave him a total of 81 counters. Osterholt got a tough break as did Walt Merchant when Epworth forfeited its game with the Baptists in the second round. This made these two men play one game less than all of the other players. It is extremely probable that had Osterholt and Merchant played the other game they would have beaten Ward out for the second half high honors.

Guarding in the second half of play increased in efficiency almost a 100 per cent over the first round. In the summary of the first round scoring it was found that seven players made 40 or more points and in the final round just two got in the select list. The record of individual scoring in one game which is held jointly by Ben Gilmore of Epworth and H. Rengert, of Waldo, remained untouched. This record is 17 counters. Both men scored their 17 points against the Calvary team.

Following is a list of the 10 men who were high scorers for the entire season: Ward 92, W. Merchant 87, Strine 86, Gillis 83, Vanderhoff 82, Osterholt 81, Partridge 72, Gilmore 66, H. Rengert 55, Johnson 52.

Training Camp News Bits

RHODES BEATS BRAVES

ST PETERSBURG, March 14—Gordon Rhodes, Yankee pitching recruit from Hollywood, has come through his first major test with flying colors. He held the Boston Braves to one hit in five innings yesterday, the Yankees winning 6 to 3.

* * *

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 14—Manager Wilbert Robinson has again urged the officials of the Brooklyn club to meet Dazzy Vance's demand for a $25,000 salary, which is $2,500 more than he has been offered. The rotund pilot admits the team cannot get along without the services of the strikeout king.

Uncle Robby thinks that Nick Cullop is the best hitter in camp at present. The rookie outfielder hit a triple as the regulars beat the seconds yesterday, 4 to 3.

LEACH BATS SIXTH

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 14—John McGraw announces that Fred Leach, the outfielder obtained from the Phillis will bat in sixth place in the lineup of the Giants this season, behind Bill Terry. He believes the pair will form the hardest-hitting two-man combination in the league.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 14—Joe Carr, president of the Columbus Senators American Association baseball club was expected here today for a several days' stay, and will accompany the team on its trip to West Palm Beach for a series of exhibition games with the St. Louis Browns.

SCRUBS PLAY INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 14—A game between the regulars and the would-be regulars was on today's program for the Cleveland Idians. Rain again marred yesterday's practice for the second day in succession. The Indians, at the direction of Manager Peckinpaugh, worked out between showers, the session consisting chiefly of arm exercise.

AVALON, Cal., March 14—The Cubs were to say farewell to their Catalina training camp today when they set sail for the mainland to begin their exhibition tour preparatory to opening the championship season. The first series will be against their "little brothers"—Los Angeles. Yesterday the Avalons won the last intra-camp game, 5 to 4.

SOX BEAT STEERS

DALLAS, Tex., March 14 — A scheduled White Sox exhibition game today at McKinney, the home of George Cox, was postponed until next Thursday because the town is largely under water. The Sox laced the Dallas Steers again here yesterday. The score was 10 to 4.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 14—The Red Sox were not a bit discouraged over their one-side 13 to 3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The boys felt confident that with Big Ed Morris, Jack Russell and Charlie Ruffing doing the twirling, they would score their first big league win by defeating the Cincinnati Reds today.

YANKS VS. BRAVES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14—Babe Ruth and the Yankees assault the Braves again this afternoon at Water Front park.

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 14—The Tiger regulars were one up on the Cubs in the third of their five-game practice series today after winning their second practice till 8 to 1 yesterday. Saturday and Sunday will finish the series and on Sunday night 24 of the Tiger-men will entrain with Bucky Harris for California for a series of games at San Diego, Santa Ana and Los Angeles.

PLAN WILL BE USED BY LEAGUE TEAMS IN 1930-31 SEASON

Football Remains Unchanged; Cage, Grid Cards Are Arranged

NEXT season's styles in the North Central Ohio basketball league were settled yesterday in Galion when the artistic element of the loop—the officials—decided that starting with the 1930-31 cage schedule the home and home system would be in vogue.

The new plan is expected to meet complete approval with coaches of the league. The writer, during the past season, had discussed the plan with practically all the N. C. O. mentors and not one of them were against it. It will eliminate any advantage that a home floor will give a team and is expected to lend more interest to the league race as well as add more filthy lucre to the associations' treasuries which, in this day and age of high priced eggs, is no little item.

As far as convenient with the contracts of league teams, the 1929-30 games will be played on the home and home schedule, only one game of the two counting in the standings. This plan will be worked out individually between schools so as not to interfere with the contracts for the year. Football schedules were not affected.

Bucyrus High school was presented the 1928-29 basketball championship trophy.

The 1928-29 schedule was reversed for next season, giving Harding high school home basketball games with Mansfield, Bucyrus and Shelby. Galion, Shelby and Ashland will be out-of-town games in the football season.

Routine business of the association was discussed and officials tentatively agreed upon in basketball. The next meeting of the association will be held at the close of the 1929-30 football season.

K. H. Marshall, principal of Harding High school, was present at the meeting with representatives from Bucyrus, Galion, Mansfield, Ashland and Shelby.

Borotra Seeks Only Tennis Championship Held In U. S.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, March 14—Down at the absolute bottom of today's list of pairings for the national indoor singles championships, starting on Saturday, is found the name, J. Borotra, just one entry among seventy-four. And maybe I don't see why the matter should be mentioned, either, except that this is the name that will be up at the top when they pay off late next week. It means, they will tell you, that France has sent another ambassador to the court of St. Lawford, patron saint of international tennis. It actually means that France, having cut off our gas and water, has sent a man around to take the piano.

The indoor tennis championship may not amount to much but, when a dime is your total fortune, a dollar is affluence. In recent years France has successively taken over our dominance of the national singles on turf, the Davis Cup series and the Wimbledon all comers' event. For two years, a Frenchman has held our singles' title outdoors and a French team has kept the Davis Cup abroad besides driving us right out of the Wimbledon finals altogether. In the midst of all this excitement, it must have forgotten the indoor championships last year, for it failed to send an ambassador and somehow we managed to bear up very bravely without him.

However, it was in this indoor event several years back that Borotra and Lacoste first discovered that they could push William Tilden around, ad. lib. and with marked freedom, the result being that each won the title in successive years. One of them is back again now and this time he finds American tennis with its hair off out of curl.

Tilden seems to be out of circulation; Van Ryn, who beat William recently, is not entered in the event; neither Lott nor Hennessey go for the indoor game and William "Junior" Coen is abroad. This leaves Francis T. Hunter as the lone American capable of really taking issue with the invader and Hunter, never quite at ease on indoor courts has been playing a lot of tournament tennis outdoors in Florida. This would seem to give Hunter hardly a white man's chance, unless Borotra happens to be off. Hunter will beat any man anywhere who doesn't happen to be distinctly "on." The French seldom go to bat unless they are "on," however.

To a man up in the old belfry, it looks as though the ambassador will give us a lot of goodwill—and take our last remaining championship.

The SPORT-O-GRAPH

BY FRANK G. MENKE

IF it hadn't been for Jack Dempsey the Sharkey-Stribling fray in Miami undoubtedly would have been a thudding flop financially.

Dempsey, by reason of his tremendous personal popularity and the dynamic effort he put into it not only salvaged the situation but made it into a definite financial success.

And for all of that—nearly two months of nerve wracking work—received about $10,000, just so much and no more.

If Tex Rickard had lived Dempsey would have been paid $60,000 for just parking in Miami and doing a bit of ballyhooing. Or if Dempsey had cared to do so, he could have gone on a vaudeville tour during January and February, and in the same eight weeks that he spent in Florida earning $10,000 he could have picked up $60,000 for stage work.

IT'S quite story, this one of "The Battle of Miami," and through all of it runs the theme of Dempsey's devotion to a pal and his insistence upon risking part of his own private fortune to keep a promise made to Rickard on his deathbed.

The success of all those Miami ventures in which Rickard was interested depended upon national publicity that would draw throngs to Miami. Rickard figured some stellar brawl would do it. So he arranged the Sharkey-Stribling match and then secured Dempsey's promise to stick around in Miami for two months and do some handshaking.

Before the match was finally clinched, Rickard died. The Madison Square Garden folks, who never thought such a fight would be a money maker, were all for discarding it. But Dempsey had promised Rickard, when Tex was near the end, that he would go through with the match so as to give Miami the publicity Tex hoped for, and thus give the dog track and the other Rickard interests a chance to prosper so there would be profit for Rickard's widow and daughter.

IF there had been no "Battle of Miami," the dog track and the gambling enterprises would have had a sorry season, and the loss might have wiped out the rather small fortune which Rickard left for his widow and his child.

"I'll stage that fight in Miami if I have to do it on my own capital." was Dempsey's promise to Rickard—the last words that Tex heard this side of the grave, the pledge of a pal who meant it—and went through with it in glorious fashion.

After Rickard was buried, the Garden powers were NOT in favor of the fight. But Dempsey WAS. Moved somewhat by Dempsey's insistence on the point that the show could be put over, the Garden crowd told Dempsey to "go ahead and see what you can do." So Dempsey hurried to Boston.

THERE he found Sharkey standing pat on a $100,000 guarantee demand. The Garden powers demurred. They wanted Sharkey to fight on a percentage. Finally they did agree to hang up $75,000 for him—"and not a dollar more."

With Sharkey holding out firmly for $100,000 and the Garden pat at $75,000, there was only on way for Dempsey to meet the problem. He did it by guaranteeing Sharkey $100,000 in behalf of the Garden; and then, according to really reliable reports, informing the Garden that if the show failed, he would make up the $25,000 difference out of his own pocket!

When Dempsey arrived in Miami to promote the show, the outlook was drear indeed. Nobody exhibited much interest in it. Newspapers that were not openly hostile to the match spoofed it and predicted that "a $100,000 gate will be BIG STUFF for that fight."

At the time, Dempsey had no written contract with the Garden. He simply had told them he would promote the show and they told him to go ahead. They had not guaranteed him either cash or percentage for his efforts. But when Dempsey's tremendous effort and his skill as a promoter made it a certainty that the affair wouldn't be a failure, the Garden folks at once swung into action, got behind Dempsey, and gave him the little help he needed.

EVEN then they wouldn't guarantee Dempsey any cash for his labors. They made an agreement with him, according to an insider, whereby Jack was to get 25 per cent of the NET profits. If the bout failed Jack would get nothing; if it broke even he got nothing. Only if it was a financial success—this battle that 99 persons out of 100 had declared would flop—was he to get any pay for nearly two months of hard effort

The net profits were around $70,000 and Dempsey, who could earn $7500 to $10,000 per week in vaudeville, or even a larger sum giving boxing exhibitions, was paid $10,000 for eight weeks' work.

But Dempsey, in addition to having that $10,000 has the satisfaction of knowing he made good on the promise to a pal who has gone; and that, practically alone and unaided, he took what looked like a gigantic flop and transformed it into an amazing promotional success.

Conversation is often fat for the lack of a little heart to heart confidence.

LOCAL TEAM BEATS DAYTON, 21-13, IN SEMI-PRO TOURNEY

Butlers Will Play Nelsonville in Second Round Monday Night

LEADING all the way from start to finish, Marion Butler cagers only local entry in the basketball tournament being played at Columbus to settle the semi-pro championship of the state defeated the Dayton Koors last night 21 to 13 to enter the second round of the tourney. It was the biggest surprise of the tournament, which starts the second round of play tonight at Aquinas high school gym.

Sensational long shooting tactics by Ben Gilmore, former Harding center, paved the way for a 7 to 1 lead which the locals held near the end of the first quarter. Practically all of these shots came from near the center of the floor and completely upset the Dayton quintet. Bud Cram however started the fireworks when he dribbled down the side and shot a one hander and then made one of two free throws he was given when Becker fouled him. On the next play he dribbled in from the left side and shot a port-sider for two points.

Tschannen and Cram, Marion guards, held the two opposing forwards to exactly no points. It was the prettiest exhibition of guarding that has been put on in the tournament so far. Applegett and Penry, local forwards, were way off. Penry was held to one field goal while Happy managed to get loose in the final half to score three field goals. Both of these players are due to hit their stride next Monday night.

Monday night at about 8:30 o'clock the local team meets Nelsonville in the second round. Nelsonville, led by Burkholder, Ohio University captain, defeated Zanesville last night 24 to 19.

The scores:

LOCKE'S volleyball team took the championship of the second round of the Business Men's volleyball league last night when it captured its sixth win in seven starts by defeating Brown, 45 to 33. Last night's games concluded the league play for the season although the ties that now exist for second and fourth places will be played off by the teams interested.

Last night Tobin won from Kerr 45 to 0; Barnhart sank Pfeiffer, 30 to 15, and Clark walloped Kette, 35 to 30. As a result of these games Barnhart and Clark are tied for second place with five games won and two lost while Kette and Tobin each dropped three out of seven and are tied for fourth place. These ties will be played off in the near future. Pfeiffer set a league record by failing to capture a game in the seven game schedule.

TUCKER SMITH GETS JOB AT OHIO STATE

Takes Place of Mike Chambers as Varsity Trainer of School

COLUMBUS, March 14—Tucker P. Smith, assistant athletic trainer at Northwestern university under the famous King Brady, has been appointed as chief varsity trainer at Ohio State university, succeeding Mike Chambers, now with the Pittsburgh National league baseball club, and Georgia Tech. Tucker will report for his new position, April 1, the athletic board announced.

Tucker is well known in athletic circles, being a product of the famous Matt Bullock.

BOYISH MANAGER OF CARDS EXPECTS TO WIN PENNANT

Southworth Says Team is Experienced and Well Balanced

AVON PARK, Fla., March 14—Billy Southworth, the boyish-looking manager of the St. L Cardinals, last year's national league pennant winners, realizes he has a hard job cut out for himself but thinks well of his club's chances of again capturing the flag.

"I've got an experienced, well balanced ball team and I expect it to deliver," he told International News Service today as he sat on the bench at Avon Park watching his players go through their spring training paces.

Southworth, a former big league outfielder, managed Rochester to a pennant in the International league last season and was selected to fill the shoes of Bill McKechnie, last year's manager of the Cardinals, who was deposed after the Redbirds lost disastrously to the New York Yankees in the world's series.

BISHOPS ENTER SIX IN ILLINOIS RELAYS

Kane, National High Hurdle Champion, Heads Wesleyan Team

DELAWARE, March 14 — Six members of the Ohio Wesleyan university track team will carry the colors of the Battling Bishops in the annual Illinois relays, Saturday, Athletic Director Gauthier announced here today.

Dwight Kane, national high hurdle champion, fresh from his sweeping victory at the central intercollegiate meet at Notre Dame last week, will be entered in both the high and low hurdles. Kane was a winner at the 1928 Illinois relays.

Norman Lambacher, who finished second to Kane last week in the low hurdles, will also compete in that event, and the 70-yard and 300-yard dashes at Illinois.

Howard H. Agnew will be Ohio Wesleyan's second entry in the high hurdles. The Bishops will enter a medley relay team including Agnew, quarter-mile; Harold Dunn, half mile; William Lewis, three-quarter mile, and Waldo Dean, mile.

[illegible] waiter and called for his bill.

"Two dollars, mister," the waiter [illegible].

With a grin Hannan took a half [illegible] from his pocket, flipped it in the air and let it fall on the table.

"There's your pay," he said quietly. "[illegible] at that rate you will be riding in a Rolls-Royce some day. Take it [illegible]."

He got up, stretched his slack [illegible] figure in a manner that was [illegible] but aggressive, and smiled [illegible] hunchback's sullen face.

"[illegible] to let the cheap-skate get away with it, George?" asked one of [illegible] who had just entered, [illegible] Hannan with an ugly sneer.

Hannan had started to leave, but [illegible] turned back. With a con[illegible] gesture and the remark [illegible] there mustn't be any "rough stuff," the hunchback put the half dollar in his pocket. Hannan, hooking his stick over his arm, lighted a cigaret and stood calmly awaiting developments.

"Them imitation sports make me sick," remarked the bellicose newcomer to his companion. "Pipe him, Bill. Don't he look cute? Mother's blue-eyed babe come to town for a naughty time. Don't he think he's the whole show, though—the dough-faced hick? Betcha he sells turnips and faces back home."

"Aw, forgit it," advised the hunchback. "We don't want no rough stuff."

But the belligerent one, to the evident approval of his companion, continued his uncomplimentary remarks. When he had listened a while, Hannan put his cane on the table, sauntered forward leisurely, and administered an emphatic tweak to the speaker's nose.

For a moment or two the bully sat motionless, as if utterly flabbergasted by such a mode of attack, then sprang to his fet with a roar.

"You little rat——" He got no farther. Hannan, with a smile still on his lips, let his fist go.

"Take that," he said, "and that—and that—and that."

Four times his fist shot out, landing one punch on each eye and two on the bully's mouth. It was a particularly ugly mouth, and so it received particular attention. The big man tried to fight back, and his blows would have proved devastating if they had landed.

None of them did, for Hannan was always somewhere else when they fell. For good measure he administered a final jab to the jaw, watched the bully go down, saw a dazed look come into the brute's face, and then he turned to his second adversary, a red-faced man with a wart on his nose.

The other customers were moving up from the rear of the room to witness the excitement. The hunchback was strutting about and wildly proclaiming that there must be no rough stuff. The second man had been a little slow getting into action, for it had taken him a minute or so to recover from his surprise at Hannan's sudden transformation from a gentle and peaceful youth to a hard-hitting combatant. Now he came forward, jerked a blackjack from his pocket, aimed a blow at the side of Hannan's head—and in the next instant let out a yell of terrible pain.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT DEFENDANTS

Charles W. Irvine and Mary J. Irvine, his wife, who reside at 2457 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Illinois, William H. Irvine and Clara Irvine, his wife, who reside at Decatur, Il*linois; John C. Irvine and Ethel* Irvine, his wife, who reside at 1402 Jackson Street, Sullivan, Illinois. Inez Irvine Powless and Clarence Powless, her husband, who reside at Ashe, Illinois; Jessie Irvine Hoch and Joseph Hoch, her husband, who reside at Richmond, Indiana, and Eliza Irvine Johnson and Thomas Johnson, her husband, who reside at Evans, Colorado, will take notice that on the 21th day of February 1929, The Morral Banking Company, a corporation doing business at Morral, Marion County, Ohio, filed its petition in the Common Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, being case No. 20637, praying for foreclosure of a mortgage executed and delivered to it by Richard V. Irvine and Wilson P. Irvine (the said Wilson P. Irvine being now deceased) on December 31, 1927, which mortgage was given to secure a note for $2,500.00 and on which there is due and unpaid the sum of $2,500.00, with interest at 5% from December 31, 1927, which mortgage is recorded in Mortgage Records, Marion County, Ohio, Volume 122, page 231, and praying further that the rights and interests of each and all of said defendants as well as other defendants, who are residents of Ohio, may be fully determined and that said real estate be sold to pay the amount due on said mortgage, said mortgage being on the following described real estate: "Situated in the County of Marion, in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Salt Rock and bounded and described as follows: Ten acres off of the south end of the real estate formerly owned by Jacob P. Barnthouse and which was conveyed to him by Elma and Chester G. Francis by Warranty Deed dated January 19th, 1892, said deed being recorded in Vol. 70, page 372, Recorder's Office Marion County, Ohio, said real estate being described therein as follows: All that part of the south half of the northeast quarter of section twenty-three (23) township four (4), south, range fourteen (14) east, that lies west of the Morral Road excepting therefrom the 20 acres strict measurement, exclusive of road, off of the west end of the south half of said quarter section apportioned to Annie Washburn (See Vol. 15, page 231, complete Record in the Court of Common Pleas of Marion County, Ohio) and all the estate, right, title and interest of said grantors in and to said premises. The land which the grantors herein convey to the grantee herein being ten acres off of the south end of the above described premises cut off in such manner as to be in the form of a rectangle and to contain ten acres, and further described as being ten acres on which Jacob P. Barnthouse formerly resided and includes the building and improvements thereon."

Said defendants have or claim to have some title or interest in said premises as heirs of the said Wilson P. Irvine, but said interest is subordinate to plaintiff's mortgage lien thereon, as averred in said petition. Said defendants are required to answer on or before the 22d day of April, 1929, or judgment and decree will be taken as prayed for in said petition.

O. S. U. Faculty Fails To Approve Recommendation

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, O. March 14—Ohio State university will continue its policy of not awarding degrees, if its up to the faculty of the university to decide.

Evidently believing the awarding of honorary degrees unnecessary in a state school, the faculty at a special meeting recently strenuously opposed the proposal and failed to approve the recommendation of the faculty committee which suggested that honorary degrees be conferred upon deserving Ohio State graduates each year.

According to the proposal made by the faculty committee of which Dean William McPherson of the Graduate School is chairman, nominations might be made only to the President of the university and conferred by him to the Graduate Council or some other representative body of the faculty.

A thorough study of each person proposed for a degree and the reasons offered for his nomination would be required before an honor of that nature be bestowed upon him.

"The President of the University shall use his discretion as to whether or not the nomination shall be submitted to the university faculty for its action," one of the provisions of the recommendation reads.

A two-thirds vote of the faculty would be required to approve the granting of any degree, after which the nomination would be then submitted to the Board of Trustees, the committee suggested.

The proposal has been greatly discussed, pro and con, at the university in the past few days. It is not known as to whether the faculty may vote to reconsider the proposal.

Sponsor Appearance of Cleveland Basketball Team March 25

GALION, March 14—The basketball classic of the season and the climaxing game of a very successful schedule for the Galion Lambs, will take place March 25 when the Rosenblums, of Cleveland, will meet the locals at the junior high school gymnasium. The Rosenblums were world champions for the season of 1927-28 and are the winners of the first half of the present American league season.

The combined strength of the Lambs and the Ashland American Legion team will compose the lineup which will meet the famous Cleveland aggregation. Fred McClintock, assistant athletic coach in the local public schools and at present high point man for the Ashland American Legion quintet, will play one of the forward positions with Pete Blaugh his legion teammate and former all-Ohio forward playing the other forward. Both are former college stars McClintock being the highest letter man ever to be graduated from Ashland college and Blaugh winning his All-Ohio berth during his career at Wooster college.

Bob Taylor, former Muskingum college star another all Ohio choice, will be at the pivot position. Stern and Nicholson, of Ashland, and Meeker and Campbell, the scoring power of the local Lambs will be ready to go into the game at the guard positions.

The game is being staged under the auspices of the Galion Lodge of Elks No. 1191 and will be a benefit affair for the Good Samaritan hospital. The entire proceeds will be for the charity fund and the Elks are making an effort to fill the gymnasium to capacity for the event.

Mechanic's Attempt to Break Speed Mark Brings Death to 2

BIBLE IS KILLED IN POWERFUL CAR

Traveling at Speed of 202 Miles When Machine Skids on Wet Sand

PHOTOGRAPHER HIT

Segrave Declares He Will Retire from Automobile Racing

DAYTONA Beach Fla March 14 —The tragic climax of the international speed tests which resulted in death to Lee Bible racing driver and Charles Traub a cameraman today plunged officials of Daytona Beach into deepest gloom and brought this year's death-defying races to an abrupt close

Bible a mechanic in a Daytona Beach garage was killed yesterday afternoon, while thundering down the nine-mile ocean speedway in The Triplex the seven ton American car he was driving in an attempt to shatter the world's automobile speed record set Monday at 231.36 miles an hour by Maj H O D Segrave of England Bible's powerful machine skidded on a wet spot on the beach course swerved violently, leaped into the air struck a sand dune and rolled back onto the beach He was traveling at a speed of 202 miles an hour at the time of the accident

Traub standing at the edge of the course taking a picture was struck before he could learn his tracks His body was cut in two Practically every bone in Bible's body was broken Both were instantly killed The ponderous 36-cylinder triplex struck the cameraman squarely clearing his body, which spurted fully 600 feet into the air

Leaps Into Air

In a split second the big car leaped from the beach hit the sand dunes showering the air with sand and smoke and then toppled back onto the beach with Bible's body beneath Pandemonium broke loose among the spectators who rushed upon the beach In the excitement several women fainted and had to be carried away

"I am through with the racing game forever" said J M White wealthy Philadelphia sportsman and owner of The Triplex the morning

"I would not have had this accident happen for all the records in the world"

White broke down and cried at the undertaking parlors He announced that he given The Triplex to Mrs ray Crill Macon Ga racer who is here with the understanding that he sell it and give the proceeds to the widow Mrs Bible and her daughter Grace 10

Segrave Quits Racing

Traub the other victim was also married His wife and seven year old daughter who are in Miami were notified of his death

Major Segrave who was on the beach at the time of the accident waiting beside his record-breaking car The Golden Arrow told International News Service today that he is through with high pressure automobile racing He had planned to take the beach for another try at the record in the event that Bible broke the mark he established on Monday

"I've had enough and I am retiring" said Segrave "I have ordered the Golden Arrow crated and shipped back to England at once"

Segrave said however that the accident would not prevent him from racing Gar Wood's speed boat Miss America the 7th at Miami Florida on March 20-21 Segrave has been trying out his boat here Miss England and had attained a speed in it of 83 miles an hour The speed boat record is 91 miles an hour

Mrs Bible was prostrated today She was an eye witness of the tragedy and was one of the first to reach her husband's side

Was Beach Mechanic

"I never would have consented to my husband's driving the car had there not been insinuations that he was not capable" she said "I was willing to have him show the doubters that he had the courage to do it Had it not been for the accident I believe he would have broken the record"

Bible lost his life in what he had craved the opportunity of his lifetime He was practically unknown in the racing game And when his name was mentioned as the likely driver of The Triplex last fall of Ray Keech who drove it to a world's record of 207 miles an hour last year, there was considerable comment Bible was a Daytona Beach garage mechanic 39 years old He had achieved some fame within the State of Florida as a dirt track driver His driving at the state racing meets had been confined to small cars

The American Automobile association under whose auspices the speed tests were held forced him to make several preliminary runs in The Triplex to demonstrate he was capable of handling the big car at high speed

PLAN TO HALT OIL WASTE IS SOUGHT

Leaders of Industry To Meet in Houston, Texas, for Conference Friday

NEW YORK March 14—The plainest words ever spoken on the so called oil problem the conservation of American crude oil supplies will come out of the conference in Houston Texas tomorrow, where leaders of the American industry will offer a plan or plans for the immediate stoppage of the waste of crude oil in the government and private oil reserves Following is the real story of tomorrow's conference

For more than a decade the American government and the heads of the oil industry have been dilly dallying with the matter of holding down crude oil production to something approaching actual requirements of the home markets with a small margin for exportation Despite enormous increase in consumption modern refining methods and discovery of new fields have combined to defeat the best efforts of the oil industry to hold production within bounds Today the strain of over-production hangs like a mill stone around the neck of the American oil business rendering almost profitless a ten billion dollar investment

Situation Grave

The gravity of the situation is seen in the fact that while American oil producers have been going on a jamboree to raise millions of barrels of oil to the surface, European sources of the liquid gold have been held rigidly in check as if waiting for the exhaustion of the American natural supplies Moreover British Dutch and French oil producers have been steadily and fearlessly exploiting the American fields, under the very noses of the public and private supervisory agencies shipping their share of the spoils to their home bases or storing for future use

With all oil products steadily mounting at a rate far above the capacity of the industry to consume or to store economically latest surveys have shown in excess of 500 000 000 barrels in storage or nearly a whole year's supply The amount of oil modern refinery needs has been practically cut in half in 18 years

Cooperation Needed

Cooperation of the oil industry is needed today more than at any other time in the nation's history With intelligent and energetic action, results are sure

It is hoped that the Houston conference will point the way to the most effective cooperation ever secured between the producing, refining and marketing divisions of the oil industry Nothing less will suffice

Ringworms Formed Eruptions on Baby's Head. Cuticura Healed.

"My baby boy had ringworms on his head They first broke out in pimples and later formed sore eruptions that itched, causing him to cry at night, and he could not sleep. His hair fell out around the eruptions

"I tried other remedies but they did not do any good. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it helped him. I purchased more and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. J. C. Roberts, 6217 St. Aubin St., Detroit, Mich., Oct. 24 1928
